Stalin's Plans For the U. S.

It is quite possible that some of the threads woven into the fabric of the story of Korea by the never-wearying needles of history date back to 1947 and the meeting of a Czech delegation of five with Stalin and his aides.

Korea, Kaesong, and our phrase about Korea's alarm-clock value take on new meaning in the light from a chink made in the silent walls of the ancient Kremlin.

In July, 1947, a Czech delegation, still full of hope that Stalin would keep his promises concerning their country's independence, arrived in Moscow to discuss an economic treaty with Russia and a proposed agreement with France. Members of it were Prime Minister Klement Gottwald, lifelong Communist; his secretary, Madam Kohler; Jan Masaryk, son of the great man who had founded the Czech republic; Prokop Drtina, non-Communist minister of justice; and Arnhost Heidrich, secretary-general of the Czech Foreign Office.

Orders

Serene in Stalin's earlier promise of non-interference made to gallant little Eduard Benes, the Czech president, Prime Minister Gottwald, before leaving home, had agreed to send a delegation to Paris to discuss participation in the Marshall Plan.

Arnhost Heidrich learned enough on that journey to plan to escape. Jan Masaryk learned enough to go back and kill himself when, months later, Czechoslovakia was overwhelmed and made merely a satellite.

Stalin revealed more than his dominance of Czechoslovakia. He told his plans for the United States—as a corollary to his orders as to why they should not go to Paris for the Marshall Plan meeting.

It is Heidrich who has told this story, now released for publication through the columns of the current Saturday Evening Post, and written for that magazine by Stewart Alsop, well-known newspaperman and columnist. From that story there is room here only for the highlights:

" 'You must understand,' Stalin resumed, slowly as always, 'what the Americans intend with this Marshall Plan . . . '

" 'First,' said Stalin, 'the Americans wish to strengthen and reinforce their own economic structure. The American ruling groups know as well as we do that they cannot avoid a terrible depression. Yet they wish to postpone this collapse by all possible means. One method is to send their surplus goods to Europe. Thus for Czechoslovakia to accept these goods from the United States would be to help to postpone the inevitable economic collapse of the United States . . . '

Stalin

"It was clear, says Heidrich, that the inevitability of American economic disaster was no mere propaganda theme in Stalin's mind, but one of Stalin's deepest convictions.

" 'A second aim of the Americans in putting forward the Marshall Plan,' he said, 'is to insure their economic and political domination over Western Europe.'

" 'It is not only not in our interests that the United States should strengthen its positions of power in Europe. On the contrary, it must be our first task to prevent this.' With quiet emphasis, Stalin then spoke two deeply significant sentences: 'Our first task must be to tear down the power positions of the United States in both Europe and Asia. Once this is done, England and France will be too weak to resist the pressure . . .

" 'No steps must be taken so important and so far-reaching in their consequences as to arouse public opinion in the United States as did Pearl Harbor.' Stalin used the English words 'Pearl Harbor'; and here, oddly enough, his tone of voice was light, and he smiled genially, rather as though he had made a joke."

Stalin felt, Heidrich continued, that he could manipulate American public opinion at will and his plans would succeed.

Now, as we all know, they have not succeeded—yet.

There has been no depression.

Korea has been another Pearl Harbor.

But, Stalin also mentioned America's "softness" and her fear of atomic attack. Heidrich thought war would come when Russia had stockpiled enough such bombs.

At any rate—this story is another warning to keep preparing.

Man Names Brother in Slaying Here

Religious Worker Describes Holdup

By KEELER McCARTNEY

A 30-year-old evangelistic worker Tuesday declared in a signed statement that he prayed upon bended knees in a getaway auto while his older brother and a companion fatally wounded an Atlanta grocer during a holdup attempt, detectives said.

Clyde Timms, 30, gave the statement immediately after his arrest near Chamblee, Det. Supt. Glynn Cowan said. Cowan added nationwide police alerts were sounded for the two other men, whom police here named as Bennie Lee Timms, 31, of a Doane Street, S. W., address, and T. C. Callahan, 25, of Formwalt Street, S. W., both paroled convicts.

Charges against the Timms brothers, Callahan; Clarence Day, 30, and his cousin, William Day, 22, who allegedly aided the three in the getaway, will be brought before the Fulton County Grand Jury Friday, Cowan said.

WHIRLWIND PROBE

Thus ended a whirlwind four-day investigation by Atlanta officers in the slaying of Harold M. Kimble, 30, of 134 Atlanta Ave., S. E. Kimble was shot down Friday night by masked bandits in a holdup attempt at the Kimble grocery store at 46 Trinity Ave., S. W. L. F. Kimble, father of the victim, engaged in a gun battle with the bandits.

First tangible clue came when a man identified as William Day called several hours after the slaying to report his auto stolen from a Boulevard, S. E., address. Mrs. Katherine Gossett, of the Police Information Bureau, became suspicious and notified detectives.

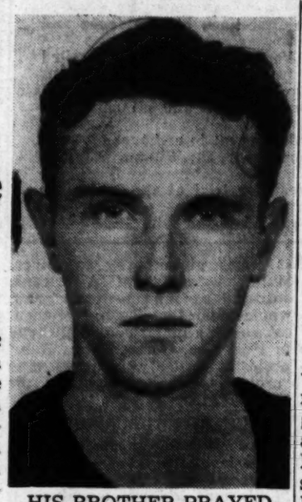

Robbery and homicide squad detectives located the auto and took Clarence and William Day into custody. Detectives charged that a shotgun barrel was sawed off at Clarence Day's home and that the gun later was used in the holdup.

FOUND GUN PART

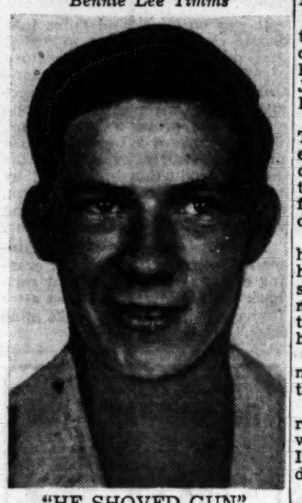

Monday, robbery squad Lt. M. M. Coppenger and Cowan found the section of a discharged gun barrel in a clump of weeds along McDonough Boulevard, S. E., with the aid of Sgt. G. H. Christian, Det. N. W. Flanagan, B. G. Holland and Y. H. Allen and others. They reconstructed the crime thus:

After sawing off the shotgun barrel, the Timms brothers and Callahan drove to the store in an

Lose Pounds By Hypnotics, Women Claim

CHICAGO, July 10—(U.P.)—A short man in a double-breasted suit stood before 17 women, some of them 200-pounders, who had crowded into his office Tuesday.

". . . You are asleep . . . sound asleep," he said. "The taste of any foods that contain sugar, starches, oils or fats will be repulsive to you . . . "

The women were trying to lose weight through hypnotism. They claim it works.

Several said they'd lost between 10 and 19 pounds in the last four weeks through the hypnotic spell of Edwin L. Baron, a stage performer who holds a degree in psychology.

They said they sleep sounder and feel younger.

Baron, who weighs 154 pounds, said his was the first group hypnotism for reducing purposes in history. He said any qualified hypnotist could make people lose weight and was surprised no one has thought of putting it on a mass basis before.

He decided to go into it a couple of months ago when, he said, some women came to his office and asked if he could help them slenderize. There was spontaneous success and the word spread. Now the women report to him twice a week.

Before Baron put them to sleep the women told their case histories.

Miss Harriett Korup said she'd been coming to Baron's office only a week and already has lost eight pounds. She now weighs 204.

Mrs. Beatrice Barnett, who began the course June 26, weighed in at 220. She said she'd lost 16 pounds.

Mrs. Minnie Gerber, 206, said she lost 14 pounds in four weeks.

Mrs. Jeannette Migenes, an understudy in the Chicago cast of South Pacific, said she'd dropped from 189 to 170 pounds in four weeks.

Doctor's Wife Rescued From 60-Foot Well

Mrs. Ross Brown, wife of an Atlanta physician, fell into a 60-foot abandoned well near Chatsworth Tuesday and spent an hour at the bottom before she was rescued.

Mrs. Brown, who lives at 1000 Peachtree Battle Ave., N. E., was admitted to Murray County Hospital, and was reported suffering from shock and a broken ankle. She was moved late Tuesday night to Georgia Baptist Hospital here, where her husband is an anesthetist.

The Atlanta woman and her sister, Mrs. Steve Brown, also the wife of an Atlanta physician, were visiting their family plantation at Chatsworth when Mrs. Brown stepped on a rotten board covering the old well and plunged in the hole.

Some time elapsed before Mrs. Steve Brown missed her sister and learned where she had fallen. She sent for her brother-in-law, Fred T. Brown, and her nephew, Frederick Brown, in Chatsworth, and they succeeded in rescuing the accident victim with ropes.

New Trial In Drewry CaseGranted

Supreme Court Renders Decision

By HOKE SMITH MAY

Setting aside the assault-with-intent-to-murder conviction of Mrs. Kathleen Merry Drewry Tuesday, the Georgia Supreme Court ruled that a statement made by Mrs. Drewry during the trial "was sufficient to show a common-law marriage between John E. Drewry and herself."

The high court ordered a new trial for Mrs. Drewry, convicted of shooting the woman her former husband, University of Georgia Journalism School Dean John Drewry, later married.

Mrs. Drewry said in Athens Tuesday night that she had new evidence which she would introduce at her next trial. She said the evidence, consisting of "letters from John to me," would clear her of all charges.

Mrs. Drewry said Dean Drewry had written her letters "in which he referred to me as his wife and said he wanted to re-establish our marriage." Mrs. Drewry claimed that the Dean still was her legal husband.

She said their "common-law marriage" was the justification for the shooting.

"If our marriage had not been re-established," she said, "I never would have done such a thing. If I were vindictive, I would have done something since then."

Mrs. Drewry added she "would not have John back now for anything in the world."

Although the Supreme Court made the ruling on the common-law marriage issue, it was not the point on which the Clarke Superior Court conviction was nullified.

With Presiding Justice William Y. Atkinson dissenting, the court ruled that a statement made by Clarke Judge Henry West during the trial amounted to "disparagement of a legitimate defense of insanity interposed by the accused."

Mrs. Kathleen Drewry and the Dean were divorced before the shooting occurred. Dean Drewry married Miss Thurmond in the interim between the shooting and the trial.

In Athens, Sol. Gen. Marvin Pollock said he planned to re-try the case next week "If we can get ready in time."

Mrs. Drewry was charged with assault with intent to murder the former Miriam Thurmond and Dean Drewry at Miss Thurmond's home in Athens on the night of Dec. 23, 1949. She was sentenced to from two to four years on the Thurmond count. A charge in the Board Approves Phone Pay Raise

The Wage Stabilization Board Tuesday advised the Southern Bell Company in Atlanta to pay a negotiated two percent wage increase to its 45,000 workers.

Local telephone officials said the two percent was part of 10 percent increase granted in June. Eight percent became effective then, with the remainder to be paid upon approval by the Board. The two percent increase amounts to an average of 86 cents per week for each employee affected.

Expressway Delay Blamed On Railroads and Utilities

By MARJORY SMITH

Fulton County Atty. Harold Sheats Tuesday charged that the City-County Joint Bond Commission "is being held up by railroads and utilities" involved in right-of-way clearances for the Atlanta Expressway.

"They practically present a blank check for us to sign!" Sheats told Commission members.

His outburst came at a meeting at which Commission members unanimously passed a motion directing County Manager A. E. Fuller and Mayor Hartsfield to confer with railroad officials in an effort to expedite expressway work.

Sheats declared that railroads and public utilities can be made to share the costs involved in clearing the right-of-way, in some instances. In other instances, he said, they can simply be notified to get off the right-of-way at their own expense.

"We'll take whatever means, legal or otherwise, necessary to get progress," said Commission Member R. L. McDougall. "If it means slapping a suit against them, do it."

Sheats' statements followed a "pessimistic" progress report by Col. Mose Cox, commission engineer-secretary, that expressway construction and acquisition of rights of way were "lagging."

Cox reported "three railroads involved in the overpass between the Bankhead Highway and Marietta Road (Southern, N. C. and St. L., and Coast Line) had submitted an agreement to the County which included the statement there would be no cost to railroads for construction."

"If we sign the agreement, our hands are tied," he declared.

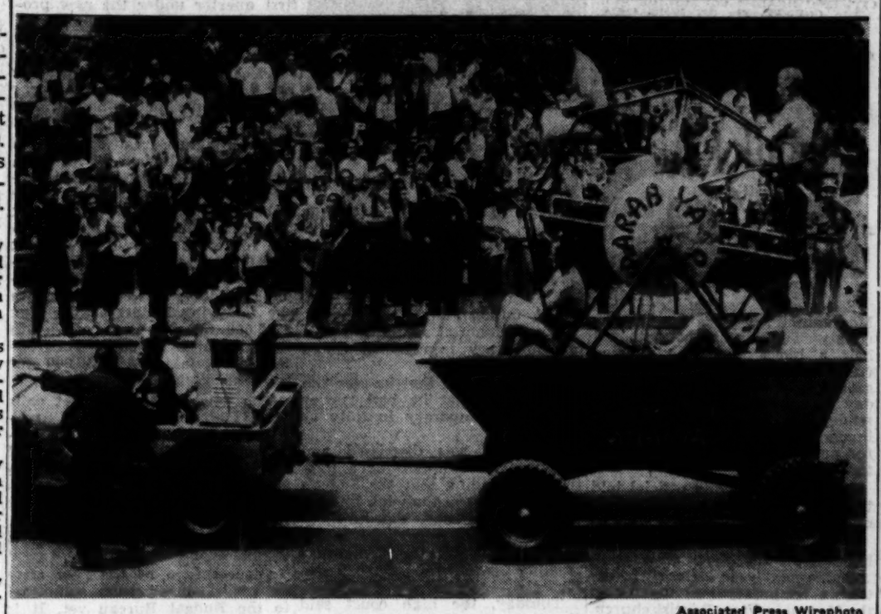

Cox reported that work on the West By-Pass "had reached a stalemate." Other reports to the Commission indicated railroads were not completing plans as quickly as expressway planners required.

"We're stymied because we have no plans approved to go ahead on," Cox said.

Fuller and Hartsfield were di-

Reds Demand Removal Of Troops, Buffer Area

ATLANTA SHRINERS KEEP COOL—NEW YORK, July 10—There was no prospect of sore feet, perspiration or stiff muscles for this quartet of Atlanta Yaarab Temple "paraders" on Fifth Avenue Tuesday. They ride a power-driven Ferris wheel that dips them in a tub of water on each turn in Shriners' 77th annual convention parade.

Seek Zone Centered on Parallel 38

TOKYO, Wednesday, July 11—(AP)—The North Korean-Chinese Reds disclosed Wednesday as the Kaesong peace talks [illegible] into the second day [illegible] they have proposed a [illegible] zone on both sides o[illegible] allel 38 and quick withdrawal of all foreign troops as the basis of an end of the Korean war.

The Reds also came out for "civil administration" of the 38th Parallel area just as it was when the war started. That would mean continuance of a divided Korea, the Communists governing the north, the republic the south.

REDS' POINTS

The Pyongyang and Peiping radios, heard in Tokyo, said North Korean Gen. Nam Il proposed these points to the United Nations cease-fire delegation when the full-scale peace talks opened Tuesday in Red-held Kaesong, three miles below the parallel:

1. A buffer zone extending 10 kilometers (6.21 miles) north and 10 kilometers south of the parallel. The former boundary between Communist north and republican South Korea was crossed by North Korean Reds in opening the war June 25, 1950.

2. An immediate cease-fire by all ground, air and naval forces.

3. Withdrawal of all foreign forces from Korea within the shortest possible time and an early exchange of prisoners.

UN POSITION STATED

Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief Allied delegate, told the delegates Tuesday at Kaesong in his opening statement:

1. Hostilities could cease only when an armistice commission was functioning under conditions guaranteeing against resumption of warfare.

2. His delegation sought in good faith to bring this about but would not talk about any political and economic matters nor any military problems not related to Korea. (This obviously referred to such things as Red China's bid for membership in the United Nations, recognition as the government of China, and her claims on Formosa.)

The five-man UN team returned Wednesday from Munsan to Kaesong, 12 miles northeast, for the second day's talks.

As the UN delegation was leaving, Maj. Gen. Henry I. Hodes, a delegate, told reporters he had not heard the Reds' radio statement on the proposals. When relayed the reports, General Hodes

House Outlaws Using Beef Slaughter Quotas

Administration Rebuffed, 200-112, As Controls Reach Voting Stage

By CLAYTON KNOWLES
New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, July 10—By a vote of 200 to 112, the House of Representatives outlawed Tuesday the use of slaughtering quotas, held by the administration to be essential to keep meats out of the black market.

The House thus followed the Senate's —lead in voting a ban that Director of Price Stabilization DiSalle has insisted will force the government to consider dropping meat from price regulation. Lack of this authority, he has said, will make enforcement all but impossible.

This action, one of three slaps against the Administration during the day, came as Manly Fleischmann, director of the National Production Authority, told a news conference that he did not envisage that further cutbacks would be required in civilian production this year.

He disclosed further his agency was even considering relaxing curbs on construction of new buildings that do not require large quantities of steel, copper or aluminum.

William McC. Martin, Jr., chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, on the other hand, informed congressional banking chairmen his agency would not relax curbs on consumer credit embodied in Regulation W, gov-

Virginia Hill's Cadillac Attached

PALO ALTO, Calif., July 10—(AP)—Government agents Tuesday placed a tax assessment lien on a $4,000 Cadillac car registered to Mrs. Virginia Hill Hauser.

Charles E. Davies, chief of the San Francisco office of the Internal Revenue Bureau's intelligence unit, said the lien on the car was filed in the San Francisco Recorder's office at the request of the Tacoma collector of internal revenue.

He said the Washington-licensed car was stored here July 5 under the name of Hans Hauser of Santiago, Chile. Hauser, Virginia's ski instructor-husband, is in South America.

This action came just a day after the government filed a $48,369 lien against Mrs. Hill at Chicago. The lien was for unpaid income taxes in 1946 and 1947.

Draft Call Expanded To 69,000

2-Month Quota To Boost Marines

By AUSTIN STEVENS
New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, July 10—An increased draft call for August and a new call for September raising to 69,000 men the requirement for the two months were issued Tuesday by the Department of Defense. While the bulk of the draftees will be assigned to the Army, the Marine Corps, accepting other than volunteers for the first time since World War II, will be assigned 13,000 men during the two months.

The Marine Corps, although traditionally a volunteer organization, had found it impossible to reach its authorized strength of 204,000 men through a lag in enlistments.

Announcement of the new selective service quotas came two weeks later than expected. Usually the Defense Department has announced the Army's needs late each month for two months hence. The delay was understood to have resulted partly from the difficulty in assessing accurately the number of reservists and regulars who will be leaving both the Army and the Marine Corps in coming months.

Originally the Army had asked for 22,000 men in August. Tuesday it asked for 28,000 next month and for the same number in September. The Marine Corps would get 7,000 enlistees next month and 6,000 in September.

The new requests for trainees will bring to 634,000 the number of men drafted in the one-year period from last September when selective service started calls again with the Korean emergency. About 587,000 men will have gone into the Army by the end of this month.

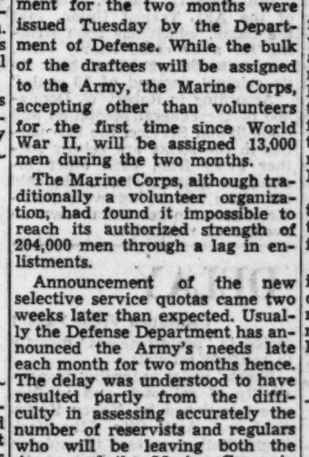

'David and Bathsheba' World Premiere Set Here

The Biblical drama, "David and Bathsheba," will be given a world premiere by 20th Century-Fox at the Paramount in Atlanta Aug. 17 with Gregory Peck and a company of screen celebrities here in person for the opening.

This is the second film based on a religious theme to be shown in a world premiere in Atlanta, a city of many churches. "I'd Climb the Highest Mountain," based on a series of sketches by Corra Harris, was premiered here Feb. 6 by the same film company.

Harry G. Ballance, Division Manager of 20th Century-Fox, Tuesday named Atlanta as the premiere city. He said Peck will be accompanied on his first Atlanta visit by Henry King, director of "Bathsheba" and "I'd Climb the Highest Mountain." Francis X. Bushman, silent movies' matinee idol, will accompany Peck here.

The story of "David and Bathsheba" was taken from the 11th chapter of Second Samuel. Peck is seen as King David, leader of the Israelites, who falls in love with Bathsheba, (portrayed by Susan Hayward), the wife of a general in his Army. David sends Bath-

Reconciliation Aim Of U. S. in Jap Pact

Would Bar Reparations Paid From Capital Assets

WASHINGTON, July 10—(AP)—The United States proposed Tuesday a "peace of reconciliation" restoring Japan to full sovereignty and giving her the right to rearm.

A revised "final" draft circulated among the other major Pacific Allies rules out reparations to be paid from capital assets such as were imposed on Germany after World War I. It opens the way nevertheless for the Philippines and other occupied countries to collect partial indemnity in the form of technical and industrial service.

Officials expect most of the other principal Allies—aside from Soviet Russia—to accept the draft without major changes.

Under its terms, which put no restriction on Japanese political or economic development:

1. Japan is stripped permanently of its pre-World War II overseas possessions. Included are Formosa, Korea, and the former mandated Pacific islands which the U. S. will continue to administer under a United Nations trusteeship.

2. Japan likewise is required to surrender any claim to the Kurile Islands and the southern part of Sakhalin Island which were handed over to Russia by the Yalta agreement. In contrast with a previous draft, however, Russia's title to those areas is not recognized. Recognition is expected to be withheld unless the Soviets sign the treaty, and Moscow has made plain that Russia has no intention of doing so.

3. Also expressly authorized is a separate Japanese-American Pact by which U. S. forces are to be kept indefinitely in Japan, filling a "power vacuum" which otherwise might tempt Communist aggression from the Asiatic mainland. The U. S. also will retain its big base on Okinawa, in the Ryukus, under the UN trusteeship.

4. There is no provision for China—either Communist or Nationalist—to sign. However Japan is authorized later to make separate treaties with other wartime foes and thus might make a separate settlement with Russia or China, provided they were not granted better terms than the other Allies.

The peace treaty is scheduled to be signed in San Francisco at an international conference Sept. 4-8, possibly with President Truman present.

School Fire Spurs Clayton Replace Rally

Some 150 residents of the Mountain View area in Clayton county Tuesday night gathered half a block from the charred ruins of the Mountain View grammer school that burned Friday and heard School Superintendent W. W. Callaway recite immediate and long-range plans for providing school facilities for their children.

The Clayton county official told them not to expect to have a new building "before September, 1952."

He told them possibilities for housing the 200 school children in the area next year included facilities in temporary buildings or in the Mountain View Baptist church, where the meeting was held, and use of already overcrowded facilities in Jonesboro and Forest Park schools.

In the long-range plan suggested by Callaway, a 12 or 14-room school building would serve a four-square-mile area around Mountain View. None of the some 350 children in the area of 702 homes would be more than one and a half miles from the school, the superintendent explained.

Construction of such a plant might be financed by a bond issue, through the State School House Building Authority or with money from a recent Federal government allotment to the county, Callaway said.

Transit Strike Still in Deadlock

Company and union officials in the Suburban Coach strike saw no immediate change in negotiations Tuesday night, three weeks after operators and mechanics of the company walked out.

But Jesse L. Walton, president of the AFL Transit Union, said the union, which has been striking for a 20 cents hourly raise, was "considering going back to its original demand of 30 cents."

According to Robert W. Donnahoo of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, the two parties in the strike are getting further away from each other instead of getting closer. He said his office was trying every possible means "to get them down an avenue of mediation."

rected to "protest delays" directly to railroad officials.

Sheats' claim regarding responsibility of railroads and utilities was questioned by Mayor Hartsfield and Asst. City Atty. Jack Fagin. Both expressed the opinion that Federal funds obtained for the expressway were contingent upon reimbursement to the railroads and utilities involved. Mayor Hartsfield cited a ruling by Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook upholding his belief.

Sheats told the Commission the county was "currently at odds with Georgia Power Company" over a $17,692.28 bill for moving and re-locating power lines. County Commissioners at their last meeting had offered $10,000 in settlement, but were refused by Georgia Power Co. spokesmen.

Cox warned the Commission that expressway planners were "approaching the stage where funds will be the yard-stick." He reported that $5,500,000 was "left" for completion of the Northeast leg, a section from Spring to Baker Sts., and the Northwest leg to Howell Mill Rd.

Approximately 6.5 miles of completed expressway will be thrown open to traffic around Aug. 15, Cox predicted Tuesday.

Cox said contractors are now putting finishing touches on the stretches including construction of median dividers, which will channelize traffic going in opposite directions.

Queuille Resigns, Awaits Successor

PARIS, July 10—(AP)—Premier Henrie Queuille went through the formality of resigning Tuesday night in the wake of the June 17 election of a new national assembly.

Queuille, who has been in office four months, will continue to function until a new premier is ready to take over.

Justice Minister Rene Mayer, Vice Premier Rene Pleven and Finance Minister Maurice Petsche were the favorites in political gossip Tuesday to get the job. Mayer, like Queuille, belongs to the middle-of-the-road Radical Socialist Party. Petsche is a right-winger. Pleven also is a middle roader, belonging to the Democratic-Socialist Union of Resistance.

Queuille resigned soon after the new assembly had met and elected 79-year-old Edouard Herriot, a Radical Socialist, as its president, or speaker. He received 334 votes. He was opposed by the DeGaullist, Leon Noel, and the Communist, Marcel Cachin.

shooting of her husband is still pending.

At the trial, Defense Attorney Carlisle Cobb attempted a plea of temporary insanity. At that point, Sol. Gen. Marshall Pollock objected, telling Judge West:

"Your Honor, I submit there is no temporary insanity in Georgia."

West answered that he was "no expert" but that he had "never heard" of temporary insanity as a plea.

The jury was dismissed and Attorney Cobb asked for a mistrial, contending that the Judge's statement was prejudicial. The request was refused, the jury returned and Judge West again charged the jury that temporary insanity was no defense in Georgia.

Tuesday, the high court said that insanity "may be, and very frequently is, only a temporary malady."

The common-law marriage ruling reversed a former Supreme Court decision in the Lefkoff versus Sicro case, establishing new standards for common law marriage procedures.

In an unsworn trial statement, the first Mrs. Drewry claimed her former husband had wooed her intimately after their divorce and agreed to a reconciliation. This and other testimony, the dean denied from the stand.

Writing the opinion, Associate Justice T. S. Candler also cited a Supreme Court decision stating it was justifiable homicide for a man to kill another man to prevent him from seducing the first man's wife.

The opinion stated Judge West did not err in failing to charge the jury on common law marriage but only because the request for the charge was improperly made.

At her home in Athens, Mrs. Drewry No. 1 appeared overjoyed at the news of her first victory in the lengthy court battle. The Court of Appeals recently sustained her conviction.

"I was sure I could get a fair trial in Georgia," she said.

She choked a little and was almost in tears as she regretted that her son, Milton, was not with her when the news came.

Dean Drewry declined to comment, stating he didn't "think it would be best at this time."

GI Gets Korea Medal, 'Greetings' Same Day

EL TORO, Calif., July 10—(AP)—Joseph R. Vickerman received a notice from his Wisconsin Draft Board to report for induction.

He laid it aside because he was busy—he had to go out to the parade ground at this Marine Air Base to receive the Navy-Marine Corps Medal.

M/Sgt. Vickerman was decorated for heroism at a Korean air field, where he defused several aerial rockets after three planes crashed on a runway. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Vickerman, of Milton, Wis.

Spending Shifts Into Higher Gear

Sales Tax Take Ready to Go

The State Budget Bureau Tuesday approved increased budgets to launch Georgia's expansion of highways, health and welfare services.

State Auditor B. E. Thrasher Jr., said the departmental plans for spending the new sales tax money appeared "to be in line." Gov. Talmadge had warned he wouldn't approve budget requests in which waste appeared.

The highway budget for the first quarter under the new program is practically doubled the amount spent during a similar period a year ago. Budget request for $6,800,227 has been approved. For the same three months a year ago, the department's budget was $3,912,500.

The Budget Bureau approved a first quarter budget of $749,489 for operation of the Health Department; $762,500 for the State Tuberculosis Hospital; $25,000 for local tuberculosis hospitals; $105,000 for crippled children's work; $200,000 for general hospital planning, and $750,000 for rural hospital building. This compared with the following budget a year ago: $525,000 for operation of Health Department; $762,000 for Tuberculosis Hospital, and $750,000 for rural hospitals.

The new Welfare Budget calls for $2,582,158 for benefit payments, $248,917 for county departments, $89,677 for operation of the state department, and $1,732,005 for institutions. A year ago the budget was $2,496,088 for benefits, $195,488 for counties, $86,487 for state department, and $1,477,691 for institutions.

Biggest item of the new state expansion hasn't been submitted to the Budget Bureau yet. It is the multi-million dollar enlargement of the school program.

CONTROLS

erning installment buying terms. He said these curbs, which Congress seems intent on relaxing, have been and are "effective and salutary in helping to counteract inflationary forces."

The prohibition against quotas voted by the House, proposed by Rep. Hope (Rep., Kan.), was carried by the votes of 152 Republicans and 48 Democrats, most of the Democrats from the South, according to a tally as accurate as possible on a non-record ballot.

Every Republican in a position of party leadership and many Democrats of high rank supported this amendment. Among the Democrats voting against the Administration were the following committee chairmen: Reps. Cooley (N. C.), agriculture; Murray (Tenn.), post office and civil service; Doughton (N. C.), ways and means; Rankin (Miss.), veterans' affairs, and Cannon (Mo.), appropriations.

COALITION VOTE

Many Southern Democrats often join the bulk of the Republicans in informal coalition against Administration proposals. Like the Republicans, they are particularly sensitive to pressures from farm organizations.

Rep. Hope, the sponsor of the amendment, frankly admitted he opposed price controls, particularly on meat, but he maintained that, even with regulation, the quota system would encourage black market operations rather than discourage them. Where else, he asked, could livestock be sold if legitimate slaughtering were held down by quotas?

In an effort to combat this farm bloc argument, Administration Democrats, led by Rep. Spence of Kentucky, the banking chairman, contended the quota system had been designed to keep the meat flowing through normal, traditional channels.

SYSTEM EXPLAINED

Rep. Patman of Texas, McCarthy of Minnesota, Multer of New York and other Democrats vainly explained how the quota system worked. They said the quotas, set by the price stabilization agency, were based on department of agriculture estimates on the number of livestock reaching market each month.

Subject to change within 24 hours under unusual conditions, these quotas, they said, sought to relate actual slaughtering done by legitimate business in 1950 with the supply available for a comparable month this year.

Thus, they noted, the July quotas for the industry were: 90 percent on cattle, 85 percent on calves, 85 percent on sheep and lambs and 105 percent on hogs.

Debate on the proposal dragged for nearly two hours with logic at times giving way to anger. Multer warned that Americans, outraged at high beef prices, would make the slogan, "let them eat hogs," a major campaign issue in 1952. Rep. Curtis, (Rep., Neb.) protested quotas were designed to "protect the vested rights of the big packers."

BLACK MARKET SEEN

"Adoption of this amendment will bring on black markets," cried Rep. Bolling, (Dem., Missouri). "Let's quit kidding ourselves, if we are. and let's quit kidding the public."

It was on such final notes that debate closed. The vote indicated that the Administration's victory of Monday, in which direct controls were sustained over indirect measures to stem inflation probably would prove a hollow one. The tide toward a weaker control program, clearly evident in the defense production bill passed by the Senate, was running again. Scores of amendments paring existing authority remain pending.

Rep. Cooley, the banking chairman who has an amendment erasing even the first 10 percent rollback in beef prices, declared after the vote, "this ought to make mine easy."

3 Men Accused of Saving Bets By Tossing Cat Into Greyhound Race

WATFORD, England, July 10—(AP)—Three men were accused Tuesday of tossing a cat into a Greyhound race to save their bets when the dog they backed was running last.

The incident occurred at the Watford track last Jan. 27.

The court was told the men bet £30 ($84) on a hound called "My Size" in the fifth race. They then took up posts near the bend into the home stretch, one of them with the cat tucked under his arm.

"My Size" ran wide at the first turn, hit the fence and dropped far behind the field.

As the dogs entered the home stretch, the cat sailed through the air and landed in front of them. The dogs quit chasing the mechanical rabbit and took off across the infield after the cat. The race was declared void and all bets were refunded.

The defendants, who pleaded innocent to a charge of fraud and cruelty to animals, were John Tracy, 24; William Daly, 36, and Thomas Malone, 42.

They were ordered to appear for trial at the November session of the Magistrates' Court.

Nobody found out what happened to the cat.

Tax-Claim Auction Set for Liquor Group

The office of the Atlanta Retail Liquor Dealers' Association has been padlocked by the Federal Government and office furnishings will be sold at auction July 20 to satisfy a $26,590 tax claim against the group, Marion Allen, Collector of Internal Revenue, announced Tuesday.

Allen said the association had filed income-tax returns, but had paid no taxes for the years 1947 through 1950.

John J. Bradley, president of the association, was reported "out of town" and unavailable for comment.

The dealers' group is supported by contributions from retail merchants collected by wholesalers.

2 Red Puppets Out In Rumania, Bulgaria

By C. L. SULZBERGER
New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution

LONDON, July 10—Dr. Petru Groza and Vulko Chervenkov, Prime Ministers of the Communist puppet regimes in Rumania and Bulgaria, are reliably reported to have been relieved of all their executive functions by their Soviet masters.

However, rumors which have received wide circulation that the two satellite statesmen are under arrest are understood to be untrue—or at least premature at this writing.

Both Groza and Chervenkov are said to still hold the formal title of Premier, but neither one is any longer allowed to exercise the usual authority of that position. Both are reported to be under close and constant surveillance by the security police of their governments.

PREVIOUS POWERS

In Groza's case it is understood his previous powers are now being carried out by a special committee appointed by the Rumanian Party's Politburo which in turn is taking direct orders from the Soviet embassy.

Chervenkov's status is said to be only slightly different. He no longer has any authority. However, his powers are now being executed by an individual instead of a Politburo committee. This is understood to be Gueorgui Chankov, probably the most important party member in Bulgaria today.

When Georgi Dimitrov, the late Communist boss of Bulgaria and former head of the Comintern, was alive he and Chankov were the only two Bulgarian Communists who held positions in their own country comparable to those of Stalin and Malenkov in the Soviet Union.

Chervenkov himself has been a good Communist ever since 1919 and was actually Dimitrov's brother-in-law. He is both a member of the Party Secretariat and its Politburo, but has been widely regarded for years by his colleagues as a stupid man.

AUTHORITY CHANGE

The only surprise in his de facto if not de jure demise from power is that the reins of authority should have been taken up by another Bulgarian—even the renowned Chankov—rather than a Soviet delegate.

As recently as June first information was received from Bucharest that Groza had been invited to report to the Soviet authorities and had not been seen since. It was recalled that Ana Pauker's faction in the party leadership had been assailing him as a "deviationist" for some time. Nevertheless since Groza officially has never been a party member but rather served at the beginning more as a semi-respectable stalking horse for the Soviet regime and later as its stooge, such charges would not technically apply.

There is no doubt that Groza was called up on the carpet by Soviet officials. Nevertheless he was seen at a festival within the last fortnight. It is reliably reported, however, that he has now been shorn of all authority and is under police guard, despite the fact that he is still officially the premier—without power. Such things can and do happen on the other side of the Iron Curtain.

Gypsy Rose, 100 Hats Off for Europe Tour

NEW YORK, July 10—(AP). Strip-teaser Gypsy Rose Lee left for a European tour Tuesday with two big trunks—full of 100 pairs of shoes and 100 hats.

She said she might perform for the U. S. troops in Germany "if the chaplains will agree that what I have to offer is what the boys really need."

She added, however, that besides the shoes and hats, she had a special wardrobe for regular performances in Germany that differed from her other costumes in that "there is more of it."

"They're very stuffy there," she said. "And when the brass is out front, don't worry. I will be dressed as if I am appearing for a matinee in Boston."

2 Guard Divisions Alerted For Shift to Europe in Fall

WASHINGTON, July 10—(AP)—The Army Tuesday alerted two National Guard divisions for movement to Europe this Fall. They are the 28th Division, originally from Pennsylvania, and the 43d, drawn from Rhode Island, Connecticut and Vermont.

Two regular Army divisions, the 4th Infantry and the 2d Armored, started for Europe earlier this year.

The final units of the 2d Armored Division are expected to reach Europe this month.

The 28th Division has been training at Camp Atterbury, Ind., and the 43d at Camp Pickett, Va. Both National Guard divisions were called into Federal service last fall.

Two other federalized guard divisions already are overseas, both of them in Japan. They are the 40th from California and the 45th Division drawn from Oklahoma.

Both the 28th and 43d Divisions are scheduled to take part in large scale maneuvers in North Carolina next month.

The Army did not announce any date for their departure for Europe, but presumably it will be after the maneuvers.

When the two guard divisions reach Europe, the U. S. will have the equivalent of six divisions available for use there by the Western European defense force under Gen. Eisenhower. Administration and defense officials testified in Congress last winter that the U. S. contribution to the Western defense force would be six divisions.

COUNTY AFFAIRS

Bookmaking Charged in Indictment

Nathan Manes, 50-year-old Atlantan arrested here Friday following a raid on his apartment by Fulton County and City law-enforcement officers, Tuesday was indicted by the Fulton County Grand Jury on a misdemeanor charge of bookmaking on horse races.

The indictment charged Manes "maintained a place . . . at 753 East Wesley Rd. . . . where he did receive, accept and make bets on horse races for money . . . and engage in the occupation . . . of what is commonly known and termed a 'bookmaker' on horse races."

Two Murder Charges

Two Negro men, Robert Lewis Fuller, of 552 Spencer St., N. W., and Curtis Walker, of 219 Rawson St., S. W., were indicted on separate charges of murder. Mayo Barber, Negro, of 795 Play Lane, N. W., was indicted on five counts of robbery, and another Negro, Herman Clifton Lewis, of 661 Rhodes St., N. W., was indicted on charges of assault with intent to murder.

The Grand Jury returned 11 other true bills. Indicted were: Johnny Moore, burglary; Anthony Granade, burglary; Clarence H. Right, burglary; Tommy Cowden larceny from house; George A. Alexander, abandonment of minor children; Eugene Gaither, robbery; Frank Golightly and Horace T. McDaniel, on joint charges of forgery; Horace T. McDaniel, forgery; Ray L. Story, two counts burglary, and Samuel Williams, burglary.

Champagne Rage

A 14-year-old boy who, Fulton County patrolmen reported, had "stolen and drunk some champagne," briefly terrorized a Northside household here Tuesday. Police were summoned by the boy's sister, who said the boy had taken her husband's shotgun and rifle and "threatened to kill her four children." Police found the boy crouching outside the house with a shotgun, ran him down and disarmed him. They reported they would question him "when he sobered up."

Damage Suit

Mrs. T. J. Dial, of 1129 Kirkwood Ave., S. E., Tuesday filed a $2,500 damage suit in Fulton Superior Court against Joe Bailey, of 253 Inman Ave., N. E. Mrs. Dial is seeking that amount for injuries she claims were received when she was struck by an automobile driven by Bailey July 3 near the Hunter-Pryor Streets intersection. Mrs. Dial charges negligence on part of the driver in not yielding her the right of way.

Mrs. LockermanSpeaks To Kiwanis Club Here

Fear, knowledge and "an answer" combine to make this "a most hopeful time in America," Mrs. Doris Lockerman, Public Information Officer of the Lockheed Plant at Marietta, Tuesday told the Atlanta Kiwanis Club.

These forces she defined as "fear of the atom bomb and of a hostile philosophy, knowledge at long last that none of us can be isolationist but that we are eternally tied up with the well-being of mankind, and the great answer to our world problems that can be provided by the United Nations organization."

Meters Out

Down at Quitman, the people have been talking about how pesky and how not pesky parking meters are for the past 90 days. Tuesday, they voted them out of the city, 288 to 276. . . . Col. J. V. V. Shuflet, since 1938 head of the University of Georgia's military setup at Athens has retired. . . . A two-weeks' school lunch workshop at the Georgia State College for Women at Milledgeville is drawing the attendance of 75 interested dietitians. . . .

Teachers to School

About 500 Georgia school superintendents and principals are planning to attend the annual School Administrators' Planning Conference, set for Athens opening Thursday. . . . Meetings will be held at Dalton Thursday, and in New York July 16 to discuss plans for advertising and pushing the sale of cotton rugs and carpeting, a Georgia product. . . . Declining birth rate, accompanying a movement of population from rural areas to cities, may mean that Georgia is going to lose citizens in the future if the present trend toward movement from the farm to the bright lights continues, say Drs. B. O. Williams and C. A. McMahan, of the University of Georgia, at Athens, in a recent article in the Georgia Alumni Record. . . .

Collegians Praise City High Schools

Nearly a dozen college scholarship winners praised the training they received in the Atlanta school system as they gave the Atlanta Board of Education a "college-eye view" of the City's high school program Tuesday.

E. L. Floyd, liaison officer between the Board and colleges and universities, filed a report with the Board showing that 10 per cent of the 1948-49 Atlanta high school graduates now in Georgia colleges made all A's and only four per cent failed.

Floyd's report showed students from the class of 1951 won 63 scholarships valued at $27,430 in 23 colleges. He noted that 55 per cent of the class have applied for admission to colleges.

City Hall Okayed For College Park

College Park Tuesday received a Federal go-ahead on construction of a proposed new City Hall and remodeling of the old building for police and fire departments, S. D. Johnson, city clerk, said.

Approval to commence construction came from the National Production Board, Johnson said. City officials and architects will go over proposed plans this week to determine the amount of money needed for the project, he added.

Money for the remodeling and for the new administration building, to be erected in College Park's 19-acre civic center, will be raised by a bond issue. Date for the bond election will be set later, Johnson said.

Says Wife Volleyed 'Welcome' With Gun

William Beauford, 31-year-old Negro, of 1038 Smith St., S. W., filed a formal complaint about the way his wife greeted him when he came home from work.

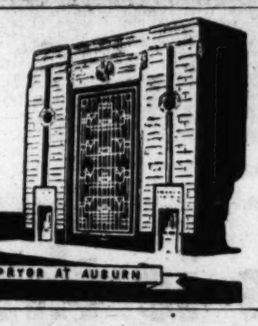

Instead of a smile and a kiss, Beauford said the wife stepped briskly to the porch and emptied a 38-caliber revolver into his automobile. He told Ptl. G. T. Hodges and H. G. Tuggle the bullets struck the auto from the front to the rear but he escaped injury. Patrolmen said the wife fled after the shooting.

Clayton County Auto Crash Sends Three to Hospital

Three persons were injured in a spectacular automobile crash in Clayton County and 18 others were hurt in Atlanta area accidents of various types Tuesday, Grady Hospital records showed.

John Lewis Harper, 30, Negro of Harperstown, was injured seriously in the Clayton smashup at the intersection of State highways 160 and 54. He was admitted to Grady with possible head injuries.

Others hurt were Charles Lewis Mitchell, 31, of Covington, and Philip Simon, 32, of Harperstown, drivers of the two cars involved. Clayton Lt. E. L. Adamson and Sgt. P. A. Brooks said Mitchell, who suffered multiple lacerations and bruises, was jailed on charges of driving under the influence and reckless driving. The officers said Mitchell's machine crashed head-on into the other car as he turned into highway 160.

Automobile accidents also accounted for injury to four others. E. A. Thomason, 39, of 540 Moreland Ave., N. E., suffered foot and chest injuries in an auto wreck near Joy Lake on Highway 42, south of Atlanta; Frederick Alvin Bennett, 15, of 37 Pulliam St., S. W., injured his right elbow when he wrecked his motor scooter; Mamie Lee Brown, 44, of 1624 Northwest Dr., N. W., fell from a truck near Bolton and Charles Sims Mercer, 19, of Rosehaven Dr., Stone Mountain, was hurt in an auto crash on the Harriston-Redan Road.

Ordinary falls again was the leading cause of injury to Atlantans, hospital records revealed, with nine persons treated at Grady. They were William Scott, 48, Negro, of the rear of 1098 North Ave., N. E., who fell 30 feet from a tree he was pruning; Josie Della Stockton, 65, of 505 Benton St., College Park; Shirley Ann Holbrook, two, of 1606 Mozley Pl., S. W., who fell from her coaster wagon; Raymond Lee Lamb, of 1438 Boulevard Dr., N. E.; Agnes Viola Born, 40, of 824 Avon Ave., S. W.; Leslie O. Peavin, 70, of 1699 Evans Dr., S. W.; Mary Joe Chumley, eight, of 202 Pine St., N. W.; Charlene LaRue Fitzpatrick, 12, of 612 Glenwood Rd., S. E.; and Arthur Lee Hill, 10, of Rt. 1, Lithonia.

Cedrick Davis Couch, 20, of 2459 Stewart Ave., S. W. suffered injuries of the hand when a motor block fell on his arm at a downtown repair shop. Four-year-old Patricia Ann White, 323 Central Ave., S. W., had her arm injured when a window fell and closed on it.

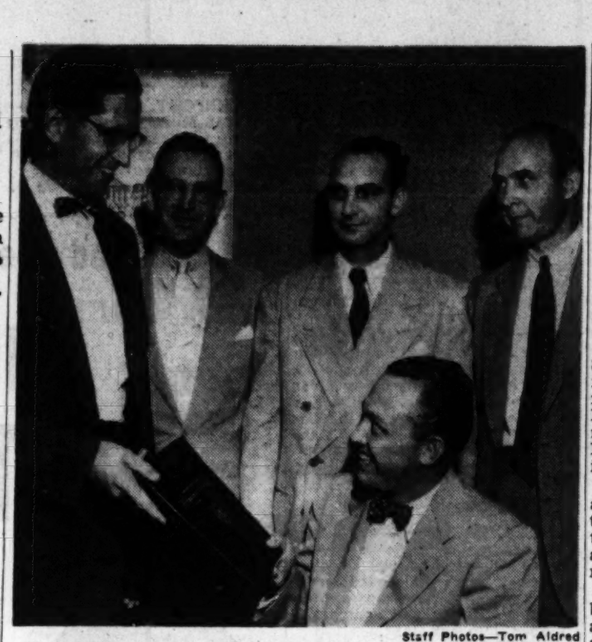

Linda Lynabell, six, of 836 Third St., N. W., was injured when her arm was entangled in a washing machine, and four-year-old Jimmy Newton Powell, 642 Woodward Ave., suffered throat injuries when he "jabbed" a pencil in his mouth, his parents said.

Abandoned Auto Puzzling to Police

Detectives Tuesday night were attempting to unravel the mystery of a heavily loaded auto discovered in front of 257 Elizabeth St., N. E.

Residents of the area said the auto was left there a week ago.

It contained three western style saddles, a bridle, two sacks of clothing, an assortment of wrenches and ammunition and auto license plates for Louisiana, Mississippi, and South Carolina.

Court Rules On Filing Writ Of Freedom

Inmates of the Reidsville State Prison seeking freedom must file writs against the warden at Reidsville, and not against the State Director of Corrections in Atlanta.

That decision was made by the State Supreme Court Tuesday as it upheld the death sentences of former Augusta Policeman E. B. McLendon, Jr., convicted of the murder of his wife, and Vester B. McBurnett, convicted of slaying a cripple at Rome.

McLendon brought action against State Director of Correction R. E. Warren in Fulton County, and McBurnett brought action against Warren in Jesup, Warren's residence.

The court said the writs must be filed in the county where the alleged illegal detention exists, and against the individual having actual physical custody of the detained person.

Labor Leader Gets OPS Advisory Post

WASHINGTON, July 10—(AP)—Labor unions representation in key mobilization agencies was completed Tuesday with appointment of John K. Meskimen as labor adviser to the Office of Price Stabilization.

Meskimen is a former general chairman of the AFL Railway Clerks Union on the Santa Fe System.

He served overseas with the Army in World War II and became chief of industrial relations for the occupation government in Germany. A resident of nearby Arlington, Va., he recently has been a consultant to the Labor Department.

Tenant Strips Another House

House-stripping activities of a new tenant Tuesday apparently moved from DeKalb into Fulton County.

Fulton Dets. Frank Haynes and J. W. Estes said a tall, middle-aged man who represented himself as a salesman from Charlotte, N. C., rented the home of S. A. Abernathy at 1761 North Ave., N. W. and gave a $60 check on a Charlotte bank to cover the rent for one month.

The check was returned Tuesday. Investigation showed the house vacant. Two shotguns and a ring belonging to Abernathy were missing.

Sgt. Jesse L. Allen, Jr., stationed at Ft. McPherson, leased his home in Brookhaven to a man answering the same description recently, DeKalb police said. When a check for $125 was returned marked "no funds," Sgt. Allen went to investigate and found his home stripped of all movable furniture.

Fifty Club Hears Mayor On Annexation

Mayor Hartsfield was bombarded by questions about dogs and taxes Tuesday night at a discussion of the Plan of Improvement held by the Buckhead Fifty Club at the Waldo Slaton American Legion Post.

By far the main point of interest was a question-and-answer period that followed talks by the Mayor, Atlanta School Superintendent Miss Ira Jarrell and Councilman Ralph Huie. The questions brought definite answers from Hartsfield.

The Mayor told Club members that the dog situation would be administered by the Fulton County Health Department which would take over all health functions, including those of the city, when the Plan goes into effect Jan. 1. He said that control of the animals would be in the hands of the same people who handle that function for the county at the present time.

About taxes, the mayor said in some cases taxes on property in the annexed areas would be lower. He indicated, however, that in many cases taxes would be higher, particularly for industry.

Fulton Commissioner Tom Camp also was brought into the tax discussion by questions as to what effect the Plan would have on the County levy. Camp declined to state what the county rate would be, but said it would be "as low as possible."

Accident Victim's Condition Critical

Mrs. Margaret Wood, 23-year-old housewife who was accidentally shot in the stomach during a chase for a runaway hog near her Stone Mountain home, was reported in critical condition at Grady Hospital Tuesday.

Mrs. Wood's daughter two-year-old Janice, was released after emergency treatment Monday night. A four year old son accidentally shot his sister and mother with a .22 rifle as he tried to aim the weapon at the hog, DeKalk police said.

Here's Proof! Believe it or Not! 31 Years of Experience 6,000,000 Treatments

Give Thomas the Skill to GROW HAIR!

This photograph shows the condition of my scalp the day I started Thomas treatment.

This shows complete re-growth of my hair after only 8 months of Thomas' treatment.

WILLIAM BECKMANN

The above photographs have been authenticated as genuine, unretouched, and the notary seal and signature of Jerome H. Pincus appear on the original copies.

Believe it or Not! Hair can and does regrow on bald and thin spots when Thomas skill and treatment technique is applied. The Thomas client pictured above had a serious scalp condition known as alopecia areata totalis. Others had failed to help him—but within 5 weeks after he started Thomas treatment, new hair was visible on his scalp. And—believe it or not—but the pictures give you the proof—within 8 months he had re-grown a complete, luxuriant head of hair!

Let Thomas Help You, Too!

Thomas accepts for treatment only 14 local scalp conditions, including alopecia areata. Thomas specialists know that more than 90% of all cases of baldness are caused by these 14 local scalp conditions. When a Thomas specialist accepts you for treatment, Thomas experience guarantees you the fastest, surest results. With Thomas there is no guess work—your specific cause of hair loss is first determined, and then a treatment given to meet your own precise, individual needs. Thomas uses all modern therapeutic devices of known value in promoting hair growth, including heat, light, massage, vibration and exclusive Thomas formulae.

You Ask the Questions—Thomas Knows the Answers!

Q. Why should I go to Thomas?

A. Only Thomas offers precise knowledge based on 6,000,000 treatments—31 years of success. Thomas fees are comparable to fees charged elsewhere—so why not get the most for your money by consulting Thomas?

Q. How can you tell if I'll respond to Thomas treatment?

A. Our laboratory files, accumulated in our 31 years of experience, cover case histories of every imaginable type. Only Thomas offers such a background of knowledge, based on 6,000,000 beneficial treatments.

Q. What about the so-called "hormone hair growers?"

A. Sound dermatological research as well as Thomas' own experience leads to the conclusion that (a) no hormone cream is of known value in promoting hair growth; and (b) there is actual danger in administering hormone extracts without the advice and direction of a physician.

Q. Is baldness inherited?

A. Research has failed to establish any grounds for the theory that baldness is an inheritable trait. One dermatologist in his study of the problem concluded that 92 of his cases of premature baldness were caused by one or more of the 14 local scalp ailments which Thomas treats, including dandruff in its various forms.

Come In Today for Free Scalp Examination!

Let Thomas help you to stop falling hair, get rid of dandruff, relieve scalp itch, and promote normal hair growth. Come in today for a free, private scalp examination. See for yourself what this time-tested, sound treatment is and how it works. You, too, can have healthier, thicker hair. And remember—only Thomas offers you skill and precision based on 31 years of success! There is no substitute for experience.

Senate Group To Speed Up Money Bills

New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, July 10—The Democratic policy committee of the Senate decided Tuesday to devote the remainder of this month to the passage of appropriation bills in an effort to clear the log-jam that has developed over money legislation.

Sen. McFarland, of Arizona, Democratic leader, indicated that the Interior Department bill, which the Senate has been debating for several days without appreciable progress, would be completed within the next day or two.

After its disposition, he intends to bring up the appropriation bills for the District of Columbia, the Treasury and the Post Office and Agriculture Department, and the civil functions of the Army. They will be called up as they are approved by the Senate Appropriations Committee.

Two money bills have yet to clear the House of Representatives. They are the proposals for the State, Justice and Commerce Departments, and the Judiciary, and the $60,600,000,000 defense bill. McFarland said the Senate would take them up as fast as they came over from the House.

said, "Well, that's normal for them" to make demands.

He is deputy chief of staff of the U. S. 8th Army.

Asked whether the cease-fire meeting was proceeding as well as expected, Hodes replied:

"That all depends on who is doing the expecting."

REDS BAR PRESS

Plans to permit 16 Allied correspondents and photographers to attend Tuesday's session were cancelled. The Allied negotiators Tuesday proposed press coverage of the meetings, but the Reds did not agree immediately.

Marine Col. J. C. Murray, one of the liaison officers who arranged the talks, said Allied war correspondents and cameramen are being barred from Kaesong because of Chinese Red opposition.

Murray quoted a Chinese representative as telling him at Kaesong Wednesday: "Since the conference at the present stage is still a military one and even the agenda has not yet been agreed upon, we consider it is not the time yet for the press to come in."

A spokesman for Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, supreme UN commander, said Ridgway "will do nothing to jeopardize the success of the conference."

On their return from Tuesday's initial sessions, the UN delegates said the meeting had "made progress toward an agenda to discuss an armistice."

WOULD GAIN GROUND

It was expected a test of the Reds' sincerity would come in their reaction to Joy's refusal to discuss anything except Korean military matters, as well as an Allied proposal for neutral inspection of behind-the-line activities on both sides.

The Reds' proposal for a 12.4-mile buffer zone centered on the parallel, finds the UN forces more than 20 miles north of the boundary at some points. In the east they are more than 30 miles north.

The Allies are in North Korea on the east and central fronts. In the west, the line dips below Parallel 38 near Kaesong.

The Peiping broadcast, quoting a "special correspondent," said Gen. Tung Hua, the chief Chinese delegate, fully supported the North Korean proposals. It also said the proposals had the support of Gen. Peng Teh-huah, the top Chinese military man in Korea.

"WISH FOR PEACE"

The broadcast quoted Tung as saying:

"We consider that the three proposals raised by the representatives of the Korean people's army constitute the necessary premise and basis for the ending of the Korean war and the peaceful settlement of the Korean question.

"The Chinese people's volunteers wholeheartedly support these proposals and hold that they should be the starting point of negotiations. Peoples of all countries hate war and ardently wish for peace. We hope that we can successfully accomplish the task of ending the Korean war."

The Reds' cease-fire proposal called not only for an end of bombing, but also for an end of air reconnaissance as well.

When the UN party returned to the Munsan camp Tuesday evening (early morning Tuesday, U. S. time), a briefing officer said the two sides had "felt each other out," presented proposed agenda and agreed to meet again Wednesday.

NO FRICTION

Before leaving Wednesday morning, Gen. Hodes said there had been no friction at Tuesday's meeting. He said he did not know whether the agenda could be completed Wednesday, nor how long the sessions might be expected to last. There have been predictions they would take weeks.

Through all the excitement of the peace talks, the war went on. The advance allied peace camp at Munsan was rocked last night and this morning by UN artillery firing in support of infantry patrolling the area between Munsan and Kaesong.

Near Yakggu, at the eastern end of the Hwachon reservoir, the Reds held allied troops to a gain of only a few hundred yards. Allied pilots reported sighting long trains of Communist supplies pouring into North Korea from Manchuria.

allegedly stolen auto. Clyde Timms told officers that he had gone to his brother's home to collect some money and was forced into the auto by Callahan, who was armed with an automatic .22 caliber pistol—said by detectives to be the death weapon.

"He—Callahan—shoved the gun into my side so hard that it left a place you can still see," Timms told detectives. "He told me he would kill me if I tried to get out.

"They drove up and parked. I was afraid to get out of the car. I heard some shooting and I got down upon my knees in the rear floorboard of the automobile and began praying. They came running back to the car and jumped in. Bennie Lee drove away."

Detectives said Clyde Timms, who was injured in an Air Force plane crash in Germany during World War II, described how they drove the stolen car to Fulton St., S. E., and there met Clarence and William Day in William Day's car. He said they abandoned the Day auto a short while before it was reported stolen.

Chamblee officers who aided in the arrest of Clyde Timms said he was active in evangelistic work and had no previous police record.

Bennie Lee Timms, described as six feet, three inches tall, and weighing 190 pounds, was first arrested in 1938 for robbery and drew a 12-months suspended sentence, records show. He had 13 subsequent arrests for robbery and burglary and in 1947 was sentenced to from 23 to 25 years on eight counts of robbery.

Callahan, five feet, five inches tall, weighs 145 pounds. FBI records show he was sentenced to one to five years for burglary in 1942 with 10 other arrests since. He was sentenced to 20 years for burglary in 1945.

Since their release on parole, Timms and Callahan have been employed at a manufacturing firm on North Side Drive, N. W., detectives related. They said Clyde Timms was laid off from work recently.

Clarence Day, a laborer, was sentenced to six months probation on charges of being drunk on a public highway in 1942. Detectives said he since has accumulated a two-page police record in disorderly conduct, robbery, stabbing cases and the like.

LOS ANGELES WOMAN TELLS HOW HADACOL RELIEVES NAGGING ACHES AND PAINS

HADACOL Helps Folks Suffering Nagging Aches and Pains, Stomach Distress, Run-Down Conditions When Due to Deficiencies of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron

No one knows how miserable nagging aches and pains can make a person feel unless they have suffered this same condition. And when these folks find a product that brings real relief from nagging aches and pains they want others to benefit from it, too. Mrs. Lucinda Velasquez, 165 North Avenue 18, Los Angeles, California, suffered nagging aches and pains and stomach distress. She also felt run-down and had lost weight. Her daughter recommended HADACOL to her mother because she had heard how it helped folks suffering these conditions B1, B2, Niacin and Iron in the system. Mrs. Velasquez says HADACOL really helped her and she is happy to recommend it.

Mrs. Lucinda Velasquez

Here is what she says: "I have been taking HADACOL for three months and just can't say enough about it. My daughter recommended HADACOL so highly and bought me the first bottle of it. I had been having aches and pains and stomach distress. I would feel so run-down and after eating I would feel so bloated and have a gassy feeling. With the second bottle I took I could tell a great improvement in my condition. I no longer suffered stomach distress after eating. My aches and pains were greatly relieved—I regained the weight I had lost. HADACOL has really helped me and I am happy to recommend it."

It's no wonder that Mrs. Velasquez is so enthusiastic about today's great HADACOL.

HADACOL makes it possible to actually relieve the REAL CAUSE of nagging aches and pains, stomach distress, run-down conditions and loss of weight when due to lack of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron in the system.

AND LISTEN TO THIS! Continued use of this great HADACOL not only gives continuous complete relief but helps keep such distress from returning when caused by such deficiencies. Now that's the kind of product folks have been looking for—the kind to buy and start taking at once.

HADACOL'S wonderful Vitamins and Minerals come in liquid form and are quickly absorbed and assimilated in the blood, ready to go to work at once.

HADACOL Is So Effective

Because HADACOL helps build up the hemoglobin content of your blood (when Iron is needed) to carry these precious Vitamins and Minerals to every organ and to every part of your body. You may have tried other Vitamin and Mineral preparations, so we make you this offer. Try a bottle of HADACOL today if you need Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron. You be the judge. If you do not believe that HADACOL is the best Vitamin and Mineral preparation you have ever taken, we will gladly send you back your money. That's our positive money-back guarantee. You take no chances.

So be fair to yourself. Don't go through life suffering nagging aches and pains, stomach distress, a run-down condition and loss of weight when due to a deficiency of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron when relief may be as close at hand as your nearest drug store.

Refuse Substitutes

There is only one HADACOL. Don't let anyone tell you something else is "just as good." Insist on genuine HADACOL. You risk nothing because HADACOL is sold on a strict money-back guarantee.

Sold at all drug counters. Trial size, $1.25, but buy the large family-size, only $3.50.

'He's Doing the Best He Can'

For what it's worth:

Home is the hunter, and off again to Litttle Rock with one graphic impression about the D leagues. There isn't a kid down there who doesn't figure he's going ahead in the business. That's what keeps them alive. . . . Cliff Dapper, who directed the Cracker collapse of '49, is a manager again. He took charge of Eugene, Ore., (class D) when Duster Mails, the old American League pitcher, quit last week.

Now that George Ratterman has jumped to the Canadian League, doesn't that make Johnny Rauch the man in charge of quarterback for the New York Yanks? . . . Picked as an outfielder on a fan-picked all-time Charlotte Hornet team this week: Roy Carlyle, the Norcross native. . . . One of 14 children in a Polish family is Ted Sepkowski, the new Cracker with the Al Aucoin-modeled arm. He learned to fight his own battles early.

Bisher

Words of praise from Caesar himself: When Whit Wyatt dived to the blessed comfort of his Cracker locker after his pitching effort Sunday, he slightly tied the tongues of gathered admirers. "Red (McCutcheon) never missed a pitch all day. That makes me wonder if these umpires are as bad as these kids say they are." . . . And then there was young John Whitlow, Jr. As his dad waded into first-inning trouble, a giant of a man behind him muttered out loud: "He's got to do better than that." Young John, a small young man of the soberest countenance, turned and told the big man: "Mister, he's doing the best he can."

While Jack Onslow finds the Chattanooga Lookouts difficult to keep in line, he's finding an even stouter problem in the wives. The fraus of Johnny Bird and Joe Hazle each has talked her husband out of the baseball life. . . . The Sporting News this week carried the portraits of three great Detroit Tigers. Missing: the late Harry Heilmann, who only led the American League hitters four times. . . . Seen around the village: Ray Prosperi, the graduated Georgia quarterback, selling a product to make life easier for the stenographer.

The Walker Future Not Scarred

"Biggest thrill of my whole life," says Jimmy Johnston, the all-time base-stealing king who watches over Engel Stadium in Chattanooga, "was when I was with the Giants and Manager Miller Huggins, of the Yankees, brought a young fellow over to meet me. He told him 'here's a fellow who stays in the big leagues because he's got guts and hits the ball all around the field. You don't have to knock down fences.'" The fellow was Hinky Haines, the All-American football player trying to make good in baseball. He didn't.

When Art Raimo took command at Villanova, he uttered rhapsodical words about a lineman named Bill Hegarty, "one of the best in the country." Hegarty was one among a group dismissed from Georgia for disciplinary reasons a couple of seasons ago. . . . While a catcher cost the Crackers a forfeited game in Mobile, the lack of one cost a Pony League team. When Batavia ran out of backstops by injury and ejections recently, Manager Ed Kobesky forfeited. He was NOT suspended 90 days.

The 90-day sentence passed on Dixie Walker shouldn't necessarily warp his aim on a big league affiliation. After Ben Chapman served a year on the rocks for socking a Piedmont League umpire he became manager of the Phillies, after which they became known as the "Fightin' Phillies." By not the strangest of coincidences, Walker and Chapman were Birmingham playmates, Yankee roommates and long-time friends.

Has Feller Forgotten '48?

Best bet to be Georgia Tech end coach, I hear, is Bob Breitenstein, the Miami candidate. . . . There's a story out that Earl Mann will call in Spec Dozier from Miami to assist with Cracker operations the rest of the season. While the young man has it, the story apparently hasn't. . . . Enthusiastic Hal Cook, whose baby is the East Lake Mister, Missus and Miss Golf day, has a few golden touches for the fifth annual next week.

Mail call: From Tom Reeder, half of Reeder & McGaughey, in Switzerland as he makes the rounds on a European vacation. . . . From a Carrollton wag who suggests that "while you're on this class D tour, don't pass up the best bet in the State—the Crackers." . . . From numerous natives wishing the gun were loaded as they fire at Charlie Hurth. . . . From another group who wish to remind the Bob Feller protestees of 1948, when Feller turned his nose up at an All-Star invitation. . . . Most penetrating argument of all: "How'd I know the guy was gonna pitch a no-hit game?" said Casey Stengel. "I haven't met a second-guesser yet who ever made a mistake."

Pete Fox went 11 innings for a decision the other day. His control is back. . . . New radio voice around the big leagues: old Catcher Gus Mancuso who has succeeded another catcher, Gabby Street, on the St. Louis air. These catchers get their vocal experience addressing umpires. . . . And whatever became of the Tongay kids? . . . Selah.

Four Homers Spark Siege On 'Juniors'

Musial, Elliott, Hodges, Kiner Slug

By CHARLES EINSTEIN

DETROIT, July 10—(INS) Alien National League heroes held their own party in celebration of Detroit's 25th birthday anniversary Tuesday, with home runs upstairs, home runs downstairs and a smashing 8-3 verdict over the home-town American League in the 18th all-star game.

Four of those big guys you read about—Stan Musial of St. Louis, Bob Elliott of Boston, Gil Hodges of Brooklyn and Ralph Kiner of Pittsburgh—whammed them into the seats to give the underdog old league its second straight all-star win and a new high for a National team.

Ralph Kiner

There were 52,075 Detroiters in the ball park, but not enough of them on the playing field. Two of Detroit's three all-star performers, George Kell and Vic Wertz, homered for two A. L. runs. The other Tiger, Fred Hutcheson, did some of the pitching for Casey Stengel's chesty unfortunates. He sired the gopher pitch that Hodges, the Brooklyn first baseman who is running ahead of Babe Ruth's all-time pace, stuck into the left-field chairs in the sixth with a friend on base.

By that time, however, it was just a case of seeing how the totals were going to come out. The Nationals already had tagged Ed Lopat, Stengel's own Yankee southpaw, with the onus of defeat by ripping him in the fourth and breaking a 1-to-1 tie.

Instead of throwing to catcher Yogi Berra, one of five fellows who played all nine innings Tuesday, Lopat might as well have cast his first pitch into the right-field stands. He didn't, but Musial did it for him. Then with one out, Gil Hodges grounded a single which hit third base, the third baseman, and the third base umpire. Promptly Elliott whaled his circuit shot into the lower left pews for two more runs.

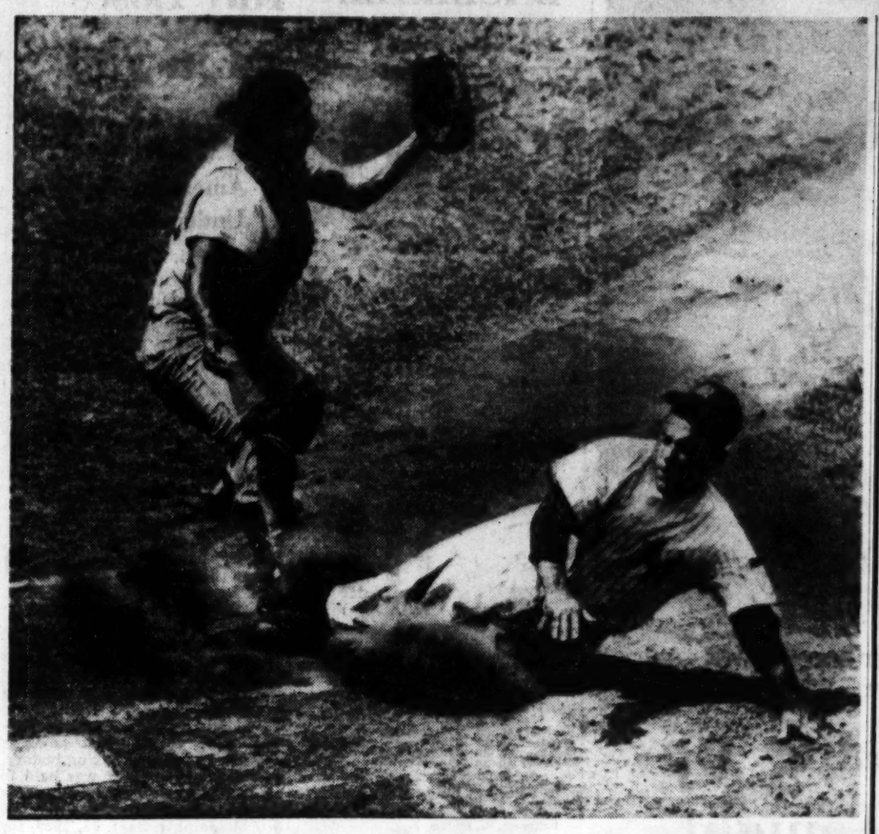

That put the gentlemen in gray ahead 4 to 2, but Sal Maglie, ill-shaven New York Giant right-hander, who was to become the winning pitcher, had a couple of home runs in his system too. He was on the wrong end of them. One was hung deep into the right field stand by Wertz in the fourth, and the other was nailed even farther by Kell in the fifth.

That cut the Nationals' lead to 4 to 3, but in the sixth Jackie Robinson lured a walk from Hutchinson and Hodges drove his homer. In the seventh, Richie Ashburn, the Philadelphia Phils' centerfielder, who had made the catch of the day, walked, rode to second on Alvin Dark's single to center, to third on Musial's force-out grounder, and home on Robinson's deft rolling bunt single to third.

All that was left to make things complete was for Kiner to hit a home run. So, against marvelous Mel Parnell, of the Boston Red Sox, in the eighth inning, he did.

Fascinated statisticians dug deep into their archives and concluded that the two-team total of six home runs set a new record for all-star play. As a matter of fact, one might have expected yet another homer from the bat of Ted Williams, the Boston boy whose two-out, two-on blast won the

Some Homecoming! Fowler 3-Hits Bears

By JESSE OUTLAR

Just mention Art Fowler and the Mobile Bears fold. Last year Fowler blanked the Bears twice and tamed them five times when he won 19 games for Atlanta. And Tuesday night the veteran right-hander proved that he hasn't lost his touch.

In his first start since returning from Milwaukee, Fowler baffled the Bears with a masterful three-hitter as Atlanta grabbed a 4-2 decision.

A two-run donation by the Atlanta infield prevented Fowler from tossing a shutout in his home-coming debut.

Only 1,491 paying customers and 923 ladies turned out to welcome Fowler back to Ponce de Leon.

As a result of the success, the Crackers climbed into a virtual tie with fourth-place Nashville. Only a fraction of a percentage point (.4888) to (.4886) separates the two clubs.

Fowler's masterpiece and timely homers by Chuck Tanner and Roy Jarvis enabled Atlanta to split the series, 2-2. However, the club lost five of nine games during the home stand.

The veteran right-hander fanned eight, walked only two and retired 15 batters in a row over one stretch. After Wayne Belardi walked in the fourth, no other Bear reached first until Russ Rose tripled in the ninth.

At the outset, the Crackers provided a sordid reception for Fowler. A pass to Fred Postolese, errors by Hank Ertman and Jack Dittmer and Rose's single gave the visitors their pair of unearned runs in the first. Thereafter, Fowler faced only 26 official batters.

The Crackers atoned for their misdeeds in the home half, when Tanner socked his third home with Charlie Williams aboard. That snarled the score, 2-2.

Marion Fricano, who absorbed his third setback, wasn't dented again until the fourth. In that frame, Ertman's one-baser and a scoring double by Dittmer for nished the winning run.

Jarvis provided an insurance run in the seventh when he planted a Fricano pitch in the right center section. It was his second home and both were against Mobile.

Brown, who triggered Atlanta's eight-hit attack with three blows, rammed a triple a few moments later but died at third.

With the exception of Jack Dittmer, Howard Anderson and Al Aucoin, the Crackers observe off days Wednesday and Thursday. That trio will be engaged in the All-Star game at Little Rock.

Atlanta opens an eight-game road tour in New Orleans Friday, with John Maldovan (1-1) the likely pitching choice.

'HE'S GREAT'

Garver Gets Top Praise Of Winners

DETROIT, July 10—(U.P.)—Victorious National Leaguers saved their greatest praise in the wake of their 8 to 3 victory in the 18th All-Star game Tuesday for an American Leaguer—Ned Garver, 25-year-old curve-baller of the St. Louis Browns.

Garver held National sluggers to one unearned run and one hit in the first three innings. It was not until he left the game that the senior circuit's power assumed command.

Ned Garver

Stan Musial, who drew a walk in his one try against Garver, shook his head.

"He's what I'd call great," Musial said.

Dodger Jackie Robinson said he was completely surprised by the type pitching dished up by the A. L.'s five pitchers.

"They told me this American League was a fast ball league," he shouted above the dressing room din. "I never saw so many curves, screwballs and changes of pace in my life.

Big Don Newcombe, who blew down the American Leaguers in the sixth, seventh and eighth innings, was still talking to himself about the pitch which Detroit outfielder Vic Wertz drove to the centerfield wall in the sixth.

"It was a change of pace that just didn't change," Newcombe said, disgustedly.

Stamps, McLennan Win in Publinx Play

Special to The Atlanta Constitution

MILWAUKEE, July 10—(AP)—Two of the three Atlanta golfers remaining in the National Public Links tourney won second-round victories over the Brown Deer Park course.

James Stamps edged Sherman Conrad, Toledo, O., 1 up, and Louis McLennan clouted Ted Kielbaso, Dayton, O., 6 and 5, to advance into third-round play Wednesday. The third Atlantan, Tommy Mathews, was nipped by P. D. Wolfe, Jr., Terre Haute, Ind., 2 and 1.

Stamps had his hands full with Conrad as both men fired 39-39—78 over the par 35-36—71 layout, but a par five on the 515-yard 15th gave Stamps his win when Conrad blew to a six.

McLennan had no trouble at all with Kielbaso, building a five-up bulge at the turn and coasting the rest of the way.

A one-over-par 36 on the out nine for Wolfe, while Mathews was settling for 42 scuttled the Georgia boy despite a brisk rally which netted him four of the eight holes they played coming in.

In Wednesday's third round, Stamps faced John McClure, Wichita, Kans., and McLennan takes on Mel Waggoner, Janesville, Wis.

Ga. Juniors Play Today

AUGUSTA, Ga., June 10—Almost the entire field in the Georgia State Junior golf tournament turned up at the Augusta Country Club a day early.

Charlie Harmon, host pro at the rolling 6,627-yard par 72 course, estimated late Tuesday afternoon that 90 juniors were out on the course getting in their final practice licks before the event begins.

Only a few more were expected to register Wednesday. The tournament, sponsored jointly by the Augusta Golf Association and the Augusta Junior Chamber of Commerce, will determine which four boys will represent Georgia in the National Jaycees tourney at Pinehurst, N. C., later this summer.

Wednesday's qualifying round will weed out all but 32 contenders for the championship.

Hapeville Hurler Forges One-Hitter

David Taylor hurled the Hapeville Little Leaguers to a one-hit, 8-0 win over Lakewood Boys' Club Tuesday in a South Fulton Little League game.

Center-fielder Glenn Blalock paced the winners at the plate with four hits in five tries.

CRACKER REPRESENTATIVES IN ALL-STAR GAME AT LITTLE ROCK TONIGHT

Southern All-Stars Gang Up On Host Travelers Tonight

By CARL BELL

LITTLE ROCK, July 10—(AP)—Other Southern Association teams, which individually have been unable to catch the Little Rock Travelers, will gang up on the league leaders Wednesday night.

It will be the Class AA circuit's 13th all-star game, an attraction expected to draw an overflow crowd of 10,000 or more of this pennant-starved city's residents.

In a way, the scrap will be a continuation of the feud between the Cinderella Travelers — who were supposed to have been a second division outfit—and the second-place Birmingham Barons. While the all-star contingent includes players from five clubs, nine of them are Birmingham hired hands.

Six of the Barons were named to the all-star squad by the Southern Association sports writers. The other three are among alternates selected to replace the seven Little Rockians who were chosen as all-stars but who will perform for their own team.

Neither Manager Gene Desautels of the Travelers nor Nashville Manager Don Osborn, who will pilot the stars, has made a definite commitment on his starting pitcher.

It's a good bet that Bob Cruze, a young lefthander with a 7-3 record, will open for Little Rock.

Traveler righthander Milo Johnson, who like Cruze was a unanimous choice for the all-star squad, was considered a possible starter until he reported a stiff neck Tuesday. Now, he isn't counted on for any action.

Howard Anderson, Atlanta's ace right-hander, may get the starting nod from Osborn, otherwise Nashville's Jim Atchley will be the choice.

Jack Dittmer, selected as an extra infielder, and Al Aucoin, an alternate choice, are Atlanta's other two representatives. Neither will be in the starting lineup, but will see action.

As usual, the all-stars will present a lineup of awesome hitters, paced by Birmingham's George Wilson, the official league leader at .349, even though a teammate, Jim Piersall, is hitting .375. He has played in fewer games than Wilson, who will draw the clean-up spot.

Desautels, who has been finding victories harder to reach in recent weeks, has shaken up the Travelers batting order once this week, and the homefolks wouldn't be surprised to see him experiment with something else against the stars. Little Rock wants to win the all-star game but, after all, this outing won't affect the Travelers' pennant bid.

Little Rock Business Manager Ray Winder promised that pregame ceremonies will be "as short and snappy as possible." Southern Association Pres. Charles Hurth, officials of all league clubs and the players will be introduced.

Game time is 8:15 (CST).

Hurth Recall Vote Rumor Gets Denial

By FURMAN BISHER

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 10—The 13th annual Southern Association All-Star game apparently won't be unlucky for Charlie Hurth. The league directors didn't come to Little Rock to fire their president. They came for a baseball game, in spite of a speculative story that said Tuesday Hurth would be put up to a recall vote.

"There has been no concerted effort for the removal of Hurth," said one director, "and I don't think it could be accomplished without the help of our club."

There will be a vote requested on the $300 fine levied against Atlanta as its penalty in the now famed forfeiture at Mobile. As for the $300, that's a negligible sum. The effect is what the Crackers are seeking. But since the rule that required Dixie Walker's 90-day suspension, as interpreted by Hurth, also requires a $300 fine for the club, there appears to be as much chance of the recall of Walker's suspension as the erasure of the fine.

Under any circumstances, this appears to be a most unwise time to fire any league president.

This question, then, will not be one brought to the floor Wednesday morning when the league directors sit down to their annual mid-summer meeting with Hurth.

Hurth himself sat down and had a talk with newspapermen about his problems Tuesday afternoon.

"Sooner or later," said the suave New Orleanian, "a president will alienate all clubs, if he hands down his rulings as required by the Constitution. One by one they will all turn against him, and within a period of two or three years, it will be necessary to elect a new president.

"I simply am trying to fulfill my duties, as required. I hold no malice toward any club, nor any individual.

"I'm sorry that Dixie Walker cannot manage the All-Star team this season. He earned that right. But his suspension requires 90 consecutive days out of action. These two days are counted among those 90 days, and therefore he is ineligible."

Great Scott Wrestles Here

The Great Scott, television's blond adonis, meets Tiger Jack Moore in one half of the double main event on the Friday night wrestling card at the City Auditorium.

Promoter Paul Jones will referee when Don McIntyre and Babe Zaharias clash for the Southern Heavyweight title in the other feature.

Nick Carter meets Mike Paidousis in a 20-minute time limit bout and Ben Morgan tangles with Tarzan White.

Ray Loses 2d in 133 Ring Bouts

American Reels Under Barrage

LONDON, July 10—(AP)—Randy Turpin, 23-year-old English fighter, won the world's middleweight title Tuesday night by outpointing Champion Ray Robinson in an amazing upset.

Turpin won the 15-round decision before a sellout crowd of 18,000 roaring fans in Earl's Court Arena.

Randy Turpin

The British Negro, who had never gone over eight rounds before, was a 3½-to-1 underdog. It was the second defeat in 133 fights for Sugar Ray who was making the first defense of the crown he won from Jake LaMotta in Chicago Feb. 14.

London ring circles termed Turpin's victory the most amazing upset in 25 years of boxing history. To many observers it was held to be the biggest upset since Gene Tunney outpointed Jack Dempsey in Philadelphia, Sept. 23, 1926, for the heavyweight crown.

Robinson hadn't lost a fight in over eight years. He was outpointed by LaMotta in a 10-rounder in Detroit, Feb. 5, 1943.

The cocky, aggressive Briton, who held the British and European middleweight championship, walked in on the 31-year-old champion without fear.

He battered the champ with every punch in the book and opened a deep gash under Sugar Ray's left eye in the seventh round. In the 12th he drew blood from the champion's nose and in the 14th staggered Robinson with a left hook to the jaw. The crowd yelled for Turpin to put the champ away.

Robinson weighed 154½, Turpin 158¾.

Robinson has been guaranteed a return bout in September in either New York or London.

For his loss Robinson received $84,000, the largest purse of his career. Turpin received $28,000. The gross gate was $224,000.

There was no doubt about Robinson's loss. The kid from Leominster, who has been only fighting pro since 1946 and has a record of 43 victories, two defeats and one draw, waded right in at the champion from the opening bell.

He roughhoused with Sugar Ray and both were repeatedly warned by Referee Gene Henderson for rules violations.

Turpin took command in the first two rounds, battering the surprised champion with ease. Robinson came back in the third but Turpin regained the edge in the fourth. Turpin, confident and aggressive as the bell for the fifth rang, swept the next three rounds as Robinson repeatedly missed haymaker rights. In the seventh blood streamed from a deep cut under Robinson's left eye.

It looked like Sugar Ray was back in the groove in the eighth as he shook Turpin with two hard rights to the head. But the youngster, son of a British Guiana soldier and an Englishwoman, boxed beautifully in the ninth. Robinson stepped up his attack in the 10th and 12th rounds and Turpin seemed through.

But once again Randy picked up the pace in the 13th and from then on he was in complete charge.

AFTER THE BALL GAME'S OVER

Casey Is Baffled --But Explains It

DETROIT, July 10—(AP)—Casey Stengel still wasn't convinced after the All-Star game Tuesday that National League power has surpassed the vaunted explosiveness of the American League.

The manager of the defeated junior circuit hinted in the dressing room that if another All-Star game were played Wednesday his outfit might outshell the opposition as badly as it has in the past.

Casey Stengel

"Sure Brooklyn has more power than it used to," said a not too sad Casey. "But what other National League has?"

Stengel kept repeating that he didn't want to "take anything away from National League hitting," but he said his pitchers "weren't too hot."

"This was the worst I've seen Ed Lopat in a long time," he said.

"They just beat us a little worse than we expected to get beat," the veteran New York Yankee pilot summed up. "In fact, we really expected to win."

Lopat himself didn't have much of an explanation for his showing, which was blamed by some for the American League loss.

"They'll never pitch this crew again," he wailed as he showered. "They seemed to be hitting the curve balls and passing up the straight ones," said the Yankee southpaw. He said it was a low breaking curve that Stan Musial hit into the right-field stands off him in the fourth inning and it was a knuckler that Bob Elliott slammed into the left-field stands later in that inning.

Mel Parnell said Ralph Kiner's four-bagger in the eighth was on a slider just below the belt.

Freddie Hutchinson, another American hurler who had the unwanted distinction of serving up a round-tripper, said Gil Hodges got hold of a straight fast one in the sixth.

"It was the first time in my life I ever threw six fast ones," said Freddie, a change-of-pace expert. "I guess Yogi Berra figured too that they wouldn't go for the straight ones."

Bums Battle Ga.-Fla. Stars

By BILL McGROTHA

VALDOSTA, July 10—Valdosta's Dodgers, scenting their first pennant since 1942, tangle with the Georgia-Florida League All-Stars in the Class D circuit's annual classic Wednesday night, 8:15, here at Pendleton Park.

The loop's lone two returning managers this year, Valdosta's Stan Wasiak and Albany's Sheldon Bender, will ply strategy against each other in a renewal of an old duel.

Bender manages the Stars for the second straight year. In 1950, he guided them over Tallahassee at Waycross.

Ken Strom, who Wasiak says throws the fastest ball in the league, will start on the Valdosta hill. The strapping six-three rookie has seen little action recently because of an aching arm.

Bender indicated that he would counter with Tifton's Puerto Rican no-hit stalwart, Roberto Betancourt. The Blue Sox' Bob flashes a 14-5 won-lost record.

Players selected for the All-Stars: Bill Murphy, Albany, first base; Glenn Zimmerman, Americus, second base; Ed Dickerman, Tifton, third base; Al Caro, Waycross, shortstop; Bob Bonaparte, Brunswick, utility infielder; pitchers Betancourt, Gene Fasano, Americus, Phillip Clark, Albany, Harry Raulerson, Waycross, Bill Wallace, Cordele; catchers Chuck Bledsoe, Waycross, and Clair Troxell, Albany; outfielders Gil Daley, Albany, Denver Rikard, Albany; John Tidwell, Tifton, and Wendell Davis, Moultrie.

Appeal Seen Thursday On Walker

Cracker officials probably will appeal Dixie Walker's case to George Trautman, minor league czar, Thursday. First ten days of Dixie's exile expired Tuesday, and Southern president Charle Hurth's decision can now be protested legally.

Pres. Earl Mann, is expected to be released from Emory Hospital sometime this week. Recovering from a serious stomach operation, Mann is now able to sit up.

Al Rubeling, released by Atlanta Monday, may hang up his spikes. Al leaves for his Baltimore home Wednesday and will make a decision later.

Al Aucoin, Jack Dittmer and Howard Anderson, Atlanta's All-Star representatives, will fly to Little Rock Wednesday morning, leaving here at 7:55. The rest of the club observes an off day Wednesday and travels to New Orleans by train Thursday.—JESSE OUTLAR.

City Open, Junior Golf Dates Set

By GENE ASHER

Definite plans for the 1951 Atlanta Open Golf tournament and the City Junior meet were made Tuesday night at a meeting of the Atlanta Professional Golfers Association.

The Open will be held Friday, August 24, at East Lake. And approximately 75 contestants are expected to enter the 36-hole, one-day affair, including defending champion Gene Dahlbender.

Prizes will be awarded to the first three low players in both amateur and pro divisions. A practice round is set for Thursday, August 20.

Southeastern PGA President Harold Sargeant announced that the annual junior tourney will be held at the West End Golf Club, August 3. Gene Hay won the 1950 crown.

Jimmy Livingston, Avondale American Legion club pro, was presented a sterling silver bowl for beginning his 30th year with the PGA.

Atlanta PGA members who will participate in the 18-hole Athens Pro-Amateur tournament Thursday are John Livingston, Standard Town and Country Club; Kenny Lake, East Lake; Hank Donchevsky, North Fulton; Elmer Reed, unattached; Bill Barker, Capital City; Charlie Edwards, West End; Charlie Miller, Druid Hills and Leo Beckman, Peachtree.

Barons Shellack Pels Behind Brickner, 12-0

By CLAUDE SITTON
United Press Sports Writer

Birmingham's Ralph Brickner spaced five hits Tuesday night to shut out New Orleans, 12-0, and hang up his ninth victory of the season.

The big Baron, who has six losses, gave up only one extra-base blow, a double by Hal Bevan.

Jim Mims was shelled in the fourth when the Barons fashioned five runs from six hits.

Marv Rackley slammed a triple and a double for Birmingham. Bob Stewart, Walt Rogers and George Wilson notched two-baggers.

Memphis came from behind to give last-place Chattanooga a merciless 15-7 licking, peppering Joe Engel's ballyard with 10 hits.

The Lookouts' Don Grate smashed two circuit clouts, one in the first with one on, the second in the sixth. The Chicks' Dixie Upright homered in the eighth with one on.

Texas' Durham Racks Up 139 For Medal in Columbus Golf

Tommy Barnes Totals 146 for High Position Among Qualifiers in Southern Amateur Play

By BERT PRATHER

COLUMBUS, Ga., July 10—Texas players here for the annual Southern Amateur golf championship weren't just a-braggin' when they warned that Herbert Durham, of Dallas, was the man to watch in this 45th Dixie links classic.

Herbert, a 27-year-old advertising man and a jet pilot in the Texas Air National Guard, who has never won anything bigger than the Shreveport junior title and his club championship in Dallas, added a three-under 69 to his opening round 70 to take medalist honors over a talent-studded 125-player field with a neat 139. That earned him the coveted Sam Perry medal and made him top man in the 64-player match play draw.

Tommy Barnes

Sonny Ellis, former Southern Intercollegiate champion from the host club, and Don January, another Dallas entry, tied for second with 36-hole scores of 140. Ellis finished with a 68 Monday, lowest round of the qualifying over the 6,517-yard par-72 course. Don, a member of North Texas State's twice National Collegiate championship golf team, stroked out a pair of sub-par 70's.

Former Georgia State titlist, Jack Key, Jr., of Columbus, was fourth among the qualifiers with a 70-71-141. Jack is rated one of the top threats in the championship which opens Wednesday and continues through Saturday.

Tommy Barnes of Atlanta, twice Southern champion and runner-up last year, staged a brilliant comeback in Tuesday's final qualifying round to post a three-under 33-36—69. This, added to his opening 77, placed the Piney Woods champ in the 146 bracket. Tommy's curling 15-foot putt on the short ninth hole for a birdie deuce was one of the prettiest putts of the day. Barnes had three birdies on the front nine for a 33. On the back side he hit the trees with his tee shot on twelve and took a bogey five. A birdie at seventeen nullified this error. However, Tommy is rated the man to beat in this tournament by many.

Durham used only 29 putts in registering his 34-35—69. He had five birdies and was one over par on six and 10. The latter hole was a three-putter for him.

It took a score of 156 or better to make the championship flight. Most of the name players made the grade, but there were three casualties — Dick Hackett of Rome; Billy Ragland, the Princeton golf captain who holds the Tennessee State Amateur crown, and Jennings Gordon of Rome. Bob Sulzer, Atlanta Amateur champion, missed making the title chase by a single stroke with 157.

The 64 qualifiers face two rounds each Wednesday and Thursday. Semi-finalist will go 36 holes Friday as will the finalist Saturday. First-round losers Wednesday morning will make up the Championship Consolation flight.

Texas captured the team championship and the Bob Jones Plaque which formerly was settled in the Southern Four-Ball tournament . . . The Lone Star aggregation, composed of Jack Munger, (148), L. M. Crannell (148), Don January (140) and Herbert A. Durham (139), edged Georgia's combine made up of Bill Zimmerman (142), Bryan Rust (147), Sonny Ellis (140) and Cecil Calhoun (147) by one stroke, 575 to 576. Fourteen four-man teams participated in the competition.

CHIP SHOTS: Sam Morgan of Selma, Ala., wasn't in the running for medalist honors with his 76-75-151, but he did enjoy the distinction of being the only player in the 125 starting field to score a hole-in-one . . . Sam made it on the 140-yard par-three ninth with a six iron.

The 1952 Southern will definitely be held at Nashville's Belle Meade Course. . . . The course is to undergo some changes under the supervision of Robert Trent Jones and it was first thought that it probably wouldn't be in condition for next year's meet . . . But that has been straightened out now . . . Montgomery Country Club is bidding strongly for the 1953 tournament and probably will get it.

all-star game for the Americans in this same Briggs Stadium 10 years ago.

Williams did hang a triple off the right-center screen in the eighth Tuesday, only to die on third as three colleagues collapsed against the offerings of Brooklyn's Don Newcombe, the third N. L. pitcher. But the closest he came to a homer was his keen observation of the three that went over his head in the left field.

On his triple, in fact, Brooklyn's center fielder Duke Snyder almost made a spectacular catch against the fence. Two innings earlier Ashburn had hightailed it to the same 415-foot sign for a leaping wizard's nab of Wertz' deep poke.

Ashburn started the Nationals in the first inning. He sliced the first pitch by Brownie Ned Garver, the American League starter, down the left field line for a double. Dark's fly to right sent Ashburn sliding into third just ahead of Wertz' throw. Then Musial walked and, with two out, made a break for second. Berra's throw had him, but the ball escaped Chicago second baseman Nelly Fox after the tag, and on the error Ashburn scampered home with an unearned run.

That was all the nonsense the brilliant Garver felt like putting up with in his three-inning turn, Ashburn's slice double being the only hit he allowed.

It was Roberts, Maglie, Newcombe and stringbean Ewell Blackwell on the hill for the Nationals—who've now won six, lost 12 in all-star play—and Garver, Lopat, Hutchinson, Parnell and Bob Lemon, of Cleveland, for the Americans.

The totals gave the Nationals 12 hits to the Americans' 10, and $124,294, after taxes, in gross receipts for the players' pension fund.

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

WILLIAM H. FIELDS, Associate Editor

We Respectfully Suggest--

We commend the action of Collector of Internal Revenue Marion Allen in closing the offices of the Atlanta Retail Liquor Dealers Association as a result of a tax claim of $26,590.20. All who owe taxes must be treated alike.

The association's income comes from an assessment of approximately 20 cents a case on liquor sold by members for the announced purpose of "promotion." But officers of the association never have clearly stated what those promotional purposes are.

It will be recalled that the January-February grand jury charged a "vast financial empire" was in the process of being built from liquor operations in the Atlanta area which threatened political corruption. It looks more and more like that charge will bear a more thorough and complete investigation.

We hope the present grand jury will call the officers of the liquor dealers association and ask them in detail what they have done with the money collected from members. It also is suggested that Mr. Allen be subpoenaed and requested to obtain permission for testifying as to what, if anything, John J. Bradley, president of the association, told him the money was being used for.

The aroma about the liquor business in Atlanta remains unsavory. The January-February grand jury, pressed for time and by other matters, did an excellent job of bringing the situation to the attention of the public. But except for changes in the city and county licensing methods—which are commendable—nothing has been done.

We respectfully urge the present grand jury to get at the truth of the way the association's money is used. If it is used to influence politicians and elections the public ought to know. The January-February grand jury rendered an invaluable service by its disclosures. We cannot, in good conscience, continue to ignore it.

States Have Responsibilities, Too

The Kefauver hearings successfully dispelled whatever doubt may have remained that the breakdown in law enforcement and the resulting corruption in government are due primarily to the laxity of local and state officials.

Organized crime cannot flourish where local authorities enforce the law vigorously and without favor.

But if local law enforcement continues to fail the Federal Government inevitably must step in. As believers in state rights, we are convinced it would be a severe blow if that ever comes to pass. States and local governments can prevent it only by facing up to the responsibilities upon which state rights rest.

A case in point is the sentencing on Tuesday of Mickey Cohen, notorious mobster and racketeer, by a federal court at Los Angeles on the charge of income tax evasion. Cohen has managed to escape local law enforcement officers all through his gangster career, even though he admittedly had lived outside the law. It was only when the Federal Government decided to press income tax charges against him that he was brought to justice.

In passing sentence, Federal Judge Ben Harrison roundly, and properly, denounced lax law enforcement in Los Angeles. Cohen's gambling activities, he said, were possible only with the acquiesence of the authorities. And certainly it was impossible for him to operate a store with five telephones for bookmaking purposes without knowledge of the police.

What is true about Los Angeles law enforcement is true of a great many other cities. Atlanta has been singularly fortunate in having largely honest law enforcement, but it can be kept that way only by continual vigilance.

It is good that the Federal Government stands ready to step in where local officials fail, but if the process continues we are in danger of losing some of our state rights by defaulting in our state and local responsibilities.

Merited Applause for City Officials

We think Mayor William B. Hartsfield, other city officials and the police merit a hand. Atlanta and Georgia have received some good national and international publicity.

In Paris, London, Brussells and Rome newspapers carried stories of the NAACP convention in Atlanta. Most of them gave special attention to the welcome and the courtesy shown Dr. Ralph Bunche, one of the distinguished diplomats of our time, and head of an important United Nations committee. Without reservation all were complimentary of Atlanta's actions.

The newspapers of one nation were disappointed.

They were the newspapers of Russia.

They had hoped the Ku Klux Klan would demonstrate and that there would be some police action against the convention. They had hoped that Dr. Bunche would be treated with discourtesy so they could talk of American boorishness, and her lack of democracy.

A curious thing is that a few of our local people apparently feel just like the Russian Communists—they, too, were disappointed the convention went off all right, and were critical of Mayor Hartsfield for appearing before the convention with his regular welcoming speech given all conventions.

We recall, for example, the mayor once welcomed the Borden milk cow, Elsie, and also a trick horse, which was ridden into his office by a cowboy. Still, there were some angry with him for welcoming this convention. They forget the mayor represents all the people and he welcomes all conventions as part of his official duty. He welcomes many religious meetings and all distinguished visitors.

So, if the Russian Communists and the narrow-minded haters amongst us are the only ones disappointed, we will manage to bear up.

Imagine what a field day the Communists would have had if there had been trouble! Atlanta's and Georgia's name would have been dragged over all the world as places of violence and of denial of the justice and rights which we boast for all our people. But, we did a good job. The NAACP met, advanced its proposals, with which many persons do not entirely agree, enjoyed the guarantee of free speech and assembly, and departed.

Now that all the returns are in, we think the mayor, the city officials, the police and the city itself deserve the hearty congratulations of all thoughtful citizens. Any time you do a job which disappoints only the Communists and the haters, you have done a real service.

Successful Show

The Editors: The eighth annual Fulton-DeKalb Shrine Horse Show has come and gone. From all indications, this year's show was the finest we have ever produced. We were particularly pleased when one person, who is in position to know, said to us that this year's show would rank fourth in the whole country.

The Mounted Patrol members want you to know how very much they appreciate the part The Constitution played in making it such a success.

As general chairman, I want to add my personal thanks for your co-operation.

Many Facets

The Editors: The Negro question, Dr. Bunche, poses many vexing problems, for which there can never be a perfect solution. Indiscriminate mixing of the races would certainly result in more unpleasant "incidents," with the possibility of some of them getting entirely out of hand.

Looking at it in a certain light, the Negro right now is enjoying equality plus, and most of them have sense enough to know it. They know that they are benefiting equally from the great and costly institutions which are built and maintained by the whites—the streets, the railways, public utilities, the great marts, the highways, the protection of the Army and Navy, etc., etc. All these heavy loads rest upon white shoulders, but the Negro has full and equal pleasure from them all. In this way he is enjoying a jolly hitch-hike ride at the expense of the white race.

Social separation works both ways. Whites are not permitted in Negro hotels, cafes or theaters. If these places are not kept up to white standards it is the Negro who is to blame.

The only gold dome in the City of Atlanta is on a Negro university. Who donated that? A white man! Please give these things your worthy consideration, Dr. Bunche.

Alto. FRANCIS L. BAILEY.

Get the Man Right

The Editors: This is a request as for the authorship of an article about a man who was interested in jigsaw puzzles.

Finding a jigsaw puzzle of the world containing several thousand pieces, he was elated and hurried home. Upon arriving home, he handed the puzzle to his young son, saying, "I have found a jigsaw puzzle of the world that will take us a long time to work."

Leaving the puzzle with his son, he went into the yard to attend some chores. Upon his return he found that his son had completed the puzzle and asked how he had managed it in so short a time. The son replied, "I found the picture of a man on the back and once I had him together the world was all right."

Who is the author of this article. I have searched high and low and have been unable to find out. WALTER B. CURRIE.

'Identification Please'

The Editors: After this, when you print the news, always mention white or Negro after each person's name so H. Clofton, Atlanta, will know what color people he is reading about.

It is a shame that he read anything about Dr. Bunche without knowing he is a Negro. But you are not to blame. You, like everyone else, supposed everyone knew of Dr. Bunche.

Inflation Or Infatuation?

One of Hedy Lamarr's old brassieres brought ten dollars at a Hollywood auction this week.

Is that inflation . . . or shero-worship?

Miss Lamarr, you may recall, recently got married and, leaving all her clothes to be auctioned off, moved with her new husband to Mexico.

She must have misunderstood him when he told her they'd go native.

At any rate, the used-car market may be down, but the second-hand bra business is booming.

Personally, I can't imagine anybody paying ten dollars for a used brassiere, unless maybe it was one of those telephone company girl's which you'd buy on speculation.

Oh, I realize Hedy's conceivably would have some historic value but, after all, the proud owner couldn't very well call attention to it the way they do those antique beds, with a framed notice: "GEORGE WASHINGTON SLEPT HERE."

Come to think of it, there is one movie star whose surplus brassieres might easily be put to utilitarian purposes. Jane Russell's, I mean, would be an attractive buy to anyone in the market for a hammock.

MAY ERWIN TALMADGE

'If This Be Treason---'

This is the reply of May Erwin (Mrs. Julius) Talmadge of Athens, Ga., to an editorial from The Macon News which was reprinted in The Constitution on Saturday, July 7.

The Macon News asked this question, "Is the United Nations un-American?" Since this question seems to be addressed to me it is my high privilege to reply to it.

The Macon News states, "The United Nations was established in San Francisco in 1945." Yes, I remember, for I was present at that meeting as an official observer. I also remember with clarity what happened at that dramatic event. It was the omission of an opening prayer.

I was stunned when I realized what had happened. And I felt deep in my heart, that without asking God's blessing and guidance upon the undertaking to bring peace to a war-weary world, that this dream was doomed to failure from the very first step. And it has failed, for we have only to remember the bloody war with Korea in which we have plunged for the past year.

When I asked why an opening prayer was omitted, I was told it was because the leaders of this mighty and Christian nation were afraid to include the prayer because it might offend those member nations that did not believe in God. And to think that this could happen in the United States of America.

Founders Is this the American way? The founders of our great and successful nation never entered upon any endeavor without first beseeching God's help, and declaring their faith in Him as their divine leader.

Then when the United Nations charter was drawn up (and the guiding hand in doing so was one Mr. Alger Hiss—since found guilty and convicted as a Communist. Remember?) no reference was made within its pages to a Supreme Being. From the very inception then of the UN there was no place for God, just as there was no place for the Son of God at the inn, 1951 years ago.

Is this the American way? The founders of our republic—the Revolutionary soldiers, the men who wrote the Constitution, the Bill of Rights, and the Declaration of Independence—did so, believing that without God in every undertaking, their efforts would be fruitless and barren.

Then in the UN charter the entire document is devoted to the promotion of a "social program" and the advancement of socialistic schemes, and not one word or line is committed to any principle having the slightest relation to Americanism as enunciated in our Constitution and other instruments, on which our republic was founded. They have changed our form of government from a republic to a democracy and have invested the word "capitalism" with sinister implications even though the fruits of "capitalism" make it possible for this country to support the world.

Answer Is this Americanism? You may find a full answer to this if you will read the "9 principles and 4 powers" adopted through resolution by the UWF and the United Nations. Their own words betray them.

If being opposed to all un-American organizations and their efforts to distort the truth about our republic, and to do all in my power to cause the banning of textbooks which attempt to glorify world government and all of its ramifications, denote the "puerile ravings of a narrow mind" (as The Macon News stated) then I am narrow-minded—and I glory in it. I'll always be "narrow-minded" in this respect, and I'll always be found fighting on the American side. "If this be treason, make the most of it."

Editor's Note—For the sake of clarification, the United States was not afraid of offending, but since the many Hindu sects, divisions of Moslems, and others opposed prayer by any one faith, the majority ruled.

Time To Take a Walk?

In The Gainesville Times

So Senator Byrd comes to tell us the South must demand a bigger voice in Democratic Party councils. What does the man want? He is senator, controls the governorship and legislature and congressional delegation from Virginia, and is the state government.

The two Georgia senators are chairmen of two of that body's most powerful committees. Congressmen Vinson and Cox rule two of the most powerful committees in the House. Connally of Texas rules the Senate foreign relations committee. In fact, the South is in control of the Congress by virtue of owning practically all committee chairmanships.

Still the Voice But Senator Byrd and his school of thought would have us take a walk from the Party in '52, or otherwise make certain the election of a Republican administration. That would still the voice of the South in Washington and there would be not a single Southerner chairman of any committee.

That is the sort of mature wisdom a boy uses when he chops up the piano because he bumped his head against it.

And he urges readoption of that undemocratic millstone of the two-thirds rule, saying it is time to let party leadership know that no Democrat can be elected without the South. History is against him there. It shows only two men have needed the solid Southern electoral vote to win, Grover Cleveland and Woodrow Wilson.

That sort of political thinking is the same as that which bedeviled the South in 1860.

Read Tom Watson Turn to page 84 of Tom Watson's "Bethany" for that picture. "The Democratic party was the majority party in the United States. But it had developed factions. Not only was there a bitter feud between Northern and Southern Democrats, but there was a wide and deep difference dividing Southern Democrats, as well. The South had lost one great opportunity when it failed to support Webster in 1852. In failing to support Stephen A. Douglas in 1856 it is probable another great opportunity was lost. Douglas was a Western man and his nomination would have meant a political union of the South and West, both agricultural sections where Democratic principles are as natural as Federalist principles are to the North and East. Southern Democrats, led by extremists, refused to accept him."

So if in our childish rage of refusal to face facts we of the South take a walk, the North and West will join together, and there will be no voice of the South in party or legislative councils worth the mention. Mass of population and weight of votes are piling up west of the Mississippi and there is where political control of the future lies. Southern states will have less representation in the next Congress. Tennessee loses a good one in Mr. Gore whose district is abolished by the 1950 census.

We had better stop hollering and start thinking. We had better renew our minds.

Baldy Is on Vacation.

Teeth Have Been Provided

"Just because you have liability insurance is no reason to test it deliberately to see how it works," Jim Chism advises in his Pelham Journal. What the Pelham editor had in mind was Georgia's new driver responsibility law in effect these last 11 days (since July 1). A number of drivers over the state have tried out the new statute and found that it has a bite. In Upson County, for example, four men lost their right to sit behind the wheel when the county ordinary, Bethel Salter, lifted their permits for operating under the influence. "I have no alternative (under the law) but to pick up the licenses of those charged with driving under the influence and on any one of five other specific charges," said Judge Salter, as quoted by The Thomaston Times.

Those five other offenses that make license revocation mandatory are: (1) manslaughter or negligent homicide resulting from the operation of a motor vehicle, (2) any felony in which a car is used, (3) hit and run or leaving the scene of an accident, (4) a false statement to the Department of Public Safety, (5) conviction or bond forfeiture on three traffic law violations within 12 months.

Good for the Upson judge who saw his duty under the new law and did it! For some time the "bench" has been saying that a more stringent law was needed if it was to mete out justice to offenders on the highway.

Teeth have now been provided.

We must teach folks that driving an automobile is not an inherent, inalienable right like the ones their ancestors fought for at Bunker Hill. Driving is a privilege which must be learned and earned.

Or as the Tail Creek correspondent for The Ellijay Times-Courier summarizes the situation:

"The insurance men are making a killing on the new auto-accident policies, but that is a lot better than so many highway killings. We already notice more care and less speeding. Anything that will pull some more reckless drivers from under the wheel the better."

ALMA, COUNTY SEAT of Bacon County, was not named for a girl. According to a story in The Waycross Journal-Herald, the name is a composite of the initials of the four capitals of Georgia—Augusta, Louisville, Milledgeville and Atlanta. Nor was the county named for a slab of pork, but for U. S. Senator A. O. Bacon.

THOMAS L. STOKES

Tough Sledding for 'Nonskeds'

WASHINGTON—A too-familiar story in our country with its boasted free enterprise is that of a new venture that finds itself obstructed by powerful established elements. This is particularly true of an industry which, in the competitive fight against the newcomer, the powers often have the benefit of a sort of protected relationship with the government regulatory agency in that field. It recurs in the report by the Senate small business committee on its investigation into the irregular, nonscheduled air lines. That reveals how this comparatively new business has been impeded, and its very existence threatened, by restrictive regulations imposed by the Civil Aeronautics Board. The report says, "There appear reasonable grounds for concluding that there exists a certain identity of interest between the CAB and the more firmly established portions of the industry.

"Such identity of interest is not infrequent between government regulatory bodies and those subject to their regulation."

Exempting the five-man CAB of any malfeasance or lack of ability, the Senate committee said that during the development of nonscheduled air lines the board "has been reluctant to recognize and protect the new enterprises, preferring to cling to the traditional position that American aviation transportation must perforce remain the exclusive franchise of the certified carriers."

The story of the nonscheduled air lines is a dramatic episode in initiative and enterprise. Soon after World War II air service veterans began to establish lines of their own, which now constitute a business embracing 50 nonscheduled air lines employing over 500 pilots as well as crews and maintenance personnel and with 188 large transport-type aircraft.

They have been an asset in national defense. In September, 1950, they were flying 60 per cent of the Korean airlift contracted to commercial air lines and in the Berlin Airlift they flew over 50 per cent of cargo transported by commercial air carriers.

They received no subsidies from the government as do the 16 regular, certified major air lines. They must meet substantially all safety and operational requirements established by CAB for the regular air lines, completing in March, this year, a billion revenue passenger-miles of common-carrier operations without a fatality.

Their development has been under difficulties thus described by the Senate committee:

"To the extent that the 'nonskeds' still exist today, they have managed to survive since 1948 in spite of constant harassment: the CAB's ever-narrowing interpretation of its regulations; new regulations designed to limit the 'nonskeds' almost entirely to common-carrier operations; vigorous enforcement activities and regulatory actions which, if unchecked, inevitably will eliminate them within a year or two; and a campaign possibly inspired by major air lines to discredit them in the public mind."

It appeared from testimony, the report said, "that the certificated carriers took an active interest in these efforts to eliminate the nonscheduled air-carriers."

The final straw was a regulation by CAB in early March this year to limit the "nonskeds" to three round-trip flights per month over major traffic segments and eight round-trip flights between all other points. On protest by the irregular carriers, Senator Sparkman (Dem., Ala.) started an investigation; meanwhile getting postponements of the new regulation. The carriers eventually got from the U. S. District Court here a permanent injunction against the regulation, terms of which, however, still require that each carrier must apply to CAB for an individual exemption from it.

In its report the Senate small business committee recommended that the regulation be rescinded and that, pending permanent regulations permitting a wider range of operations, it issue a temporary regulation allowing sufficient flights for profitable operations.

And it proposed immediate legislation separating air-line subsidies from compensation for cost of carrying the mails, so that Congress would be informed of the amount of such subsidies enjoyed by the certified major air lines.

The fireman, the policeman and . . . the man who drives the bus . . . deserve, but seldom get a hand . . . or thanks from most of us . . . the brave policeman pounds his beat . . . in sleet or scorching sun . . . until he flattens out his feet . . . and gets too fat to run.

The fireman's disregard of flame . . . is something to admire . . . he put aside his checker game . . . and goes to fight the fire . . . or if he holds a poker hand . . . with aces "in the hole" . . . he has to leave the table and . . . go sliding down a pole.

The man who drives the bus is one . . . we don't appreciate . . . he's either early on his run . . . or else he's running late . . . with making change and checking fares . . . and questions people ask . . . he needs your patience and your prayers . . . to aid him with his task . . . which is the work of two or three . . . the man who drives the bus . . . from what we have observed, should be . . . a human octopus.

I think it's time now to begin . . . to say nice things about . . . two fellows who will "take you in" . . . and one who "puts you out."

Rulers, Like Nations, Have Troubles

Abadan Oil Is Slowing To Trickle

Only One Unit To Be Operated

By SYDNEY GRUSON

New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

TEHERAN, July 10—British technicians began Tuesday the delicate job of closing down the giant catalytic cracker in the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company's refinery here.

By the time the job is finished on Friday production at the world's largest refining plant will have been reduced to a "trickle" of about 3,000,000 gallons daily—one-sixth of normal capacity—and only one of the refinery's ten distillation units will be left in operation.

The cracker, known affectionately here as "Mississippi Showboat" because of the American Company that built it, has capacity of 4,000,000 gallons daily and is Abadan's main producer of aviation gasoline. It has been in operation only a few months.

One unit, to be left in production, will be kept going "indefinitely," Alex Mason, Anglo-Iranian's chief representative here said. He also disclosed a decision to reduce the pace of the evacuation of British personnel and these two moves—to keep the refinery ticking with one unit and to keep as many British technicians as possible on the spot—added up for observers here to an important British policy shift in the bitter dispute with the Iranian government.

Mason attempted to minimize the importance of the new tactics and refused even to concede the company had shifted its ground. But at every meeting with the press for the last two weeks he had emphasized the refinery was heading for a complete shutdown and only last Saturday Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison had said there could be no alternative to the British clearing out, once the storage capacity at Abadan was filled. Now, however, it has been disclosed that all production, at the minimum level to be heached at the end of the week, could be used up in the company's power plants and for distribution through Iran, without further storage at all. Mason indicated this was what the company intends to do.

British Phone Line From Refinery Cut

By EDGAR CLARK

TEHRAN, Iran, July 10—(U.P.)—Iran Tuesday cut off the last British-owned communications linking the Anglo-Iranian Oil refinery at Abadan with the outside world.

Officials of the nationalized AIOC were told that henceforth they must use Iranian facilities. It was acknowledged the purpose was to keep the Iranians informed on future British moves.

Letters were sent to AIOC officials in Abadan ordering them to turn over control of their communications and informing them that their private telephone line to Basra, Iraq, would be cut. A few hours later, the line went dead.

Bell Tolling for Peace Silenced by Lightning

CARBONDALE, Ill., July 10—(AP)—Chimes in one of the churches which ring bells to remind Carbondale citizens to pray for peace in Korea were silenced Tuesday by a bolt of lightning.

The amplifier which sent the chimes out over the city was disabled by the lightning.

However, the First Methodist Church bell continued to toll, along with other church bells, twice a day, at noon and 5 p. m. (CST). The bells, ringing since Saturday, will call citizens to prayer as long as the Kaesong peace talks last.

Ouster Plan On Acheson Is Delayed

Committee Votes Department Cut

WASHINGTON, July 10—(U.P.) The House Appropriations Committee Tuesday ordered a $54,254,000 cut in proposed State Department spending in fiscal 1952, but took no action on Republican proposals to oust Secretary Dean Acheson.

The 18 percent reduction voted by the committee would leave the Department with $231,254,000 to finance its world-wide operations during the 12 months that began July 1. President Truman had requested $283,686,476 for the programs.

The funds were included in an omnibus bill approved by the committee. It also included $181,667,000 for the Justice Department, $612,698,000 for the Commerce Department and $25,918,115 to operate the Federal courts.

The Justice Department, including the FBI, was cut only 1.5 percent below the President's budget request. The Commerce Department was reduced 20 percent and the judiciary system a little over two percent.

Republican members originally had planned to urge the committee to include a rider in the State Department appropriations section which would have cut off the salary of Acheson and several of his top officials, including his Republican adviser, John Foster Dulles.

They decided against bringing the plan up in the committee, but warned they would try to put it across when the bill reaches the House floor soon.

House Democratic leaders conceded the issue may be close. But they believe the Korean cease-fire talks have increased Acheson's prestige.

The GOP plan was devised by Rep. John Phillips, Republican, California. It would deny the use of State Department funds to pay officials who have been associated with a firm that represented a foreign government during the last five years. Acheson's law firm represented Poland.

In addition to him and Dulles, the proposal would hit Assistant Secretary Edward G. Miller, Thomas D. Cabot, director of the mutual assistance program; Walter S. Gifford, ambassador to Britain; Philip Bonsal, embassy counselor in Paris; Stanton Griffis, ambassador to Spain, and Richard Patterson, ambassador to Switzerland.

Unit Suit Thrown Out, Appeal Is in Doubt

Two Other Cases Testing Voting System Coming

First of a series of legal attacks on Georgia's county unit system was thrown out of Floyd Superior Court Tuesday and there was some doubt over whether it would be appealed to the Supreme Court.

Obsetvers said appeal of the Floyd County suit may be held in abeyance until two other suits attacking the system's constitutionality in Meriwether Superior Court are decided.

Floyd Superior Court Judge H. E. Nichols dismissed a land title suit filed to test the vote counting system's constitutionality.

Rep. James Wood, plaintiff, would say only that he wanted to hold further conferences with his attorneys before making a decision.

Informed sources speculated that the case might not be appealed because it was not decided on its merits in the lower court.

The other suits, brought against Democratic Executive Committee Chairman James S. Peters and former Secretary Iris Blitch, testing the system's constitutionality, are pending in Meriwether Superior Court.

Some circles said participants in the Floyd County suit would adopt a "wait and see" attitude toward the Meriwether cases, which are scheduled to be heard next Tuesday.

Bypassing the question of whether the county units system was equitable, Judge Nichols tossed out the case because he said a deed contract involved in thet complex suit was not valid and "is really not a condition at all."

R. E. Martin, a Savannah school official, deeded a tract of land to State Sen. Geronimo King, of Chattahoochee County. Under terms of the deed, the land then would go to either Wood if the unit system were unconstitutional or to Cullen B. Gosnell, of Decatur, if the system were constitutional.

Gosnell claimed the land and Wood sued for its possession.

Wood, contacted at Macon, said he regretted that the Floyd Court "had not ruled on the principal issue of the case—namely whether the unit system is unconstitutional."

Gov. Talmadge and other Administration leaders were jubilant. The Governors said he was "delighted" with the decision.

Democratic Chairman James S. Peters said the "people knew all along the case was a phony and for that reason the Governor and Attorney General refused to participate in it."

One of the Meriwether suits against Peters and Mrs. Blitch, brought for $100,100 damages by Eastman Editor Ed Methvin, charges the unit system "watered down" his vote in the 1950 primary.

Another, brought by Cherokee County farmer W. M. Cox, alleges that Cox, as a white voter, is descriminated against by the vote-tabulating plan.

Columbus Forbids Dogs To Trespass

COLUMBUS, July 10—(INS)—Columbus postmen's dream almost came true when the city council passed a "dog" "trespass" and requires that ordinance.

Mail carriers had urged the council to require all dogs to be kept in the owners' yards or on leashes.

The proposal was met head-on by canine owners, who charged that such an ordinance would be cruel to their pets.

The ordinance, as passed, makes it unlawful for dogs to "tresspass" and requires that vicious dogs be kept home or muzzled.

Youth, 16, Gets 3 Life Terms For Killing Kin

MORRISTOWN, N. J., July 10—(AP)—A 16-year-old boy received three life imprisonment sentences Tuesday for the triple slaying of his uncle and two aunts.

The boy, William Nickle, was permitted to substitute three pleats of no contest for three innocent pleas made May 4.

He admitted shooting to death his bed-ridden uncle, Charles Brown, 49, his uncle's wife, Mary, 42, and Brown's sister, Mrs. Myrtle Brown, 45, in their Dover home March 31.

Morris county Judge Howard Barrett sentenced the short, stocky lad to hard labor for the duration of each of the life terms.

At the time of the slayings, Nickle told police he killed his relatives because he "had trouble getting out nights to see his girl friend." He had lived with them two years.

Meat Ration Boost

LONDON, July 10—(AP)—Food Minister Maurice Webb announced Tuesday the British meat ration will be increased by 60 per cent this summer. The increase will be put into effect in three stages beginning on July 22. At the same time the price of meat will be raised an average of three pence (three and a half cents) a pound.

Visitor Protests 'Speed Trap'; Will Avoid Long County Area

Louis Kushner, of New York, who has been traveling the South by car for 30 years without any traffic troubles, came back through Atlanta by train this time.

He dropped by The Constitution to tell why.

Last time he came through Georgia, he says, his wife was with him. It was late in the afternoon in Long County that a car behind him started blowing its horn and crowding him. The driver needed a shave, wore a ragged shirt, and looked like a bum.

Having read of holdups and seeing his wife frightened, Kushner says he stepped on the gas. He was overtaken.

"The fellow flashed a badge on me and said I had to put up $15 for appearance bond at the Ludowici court. He said the siren on his car was broken. The only police sign was a tag on the back of the car. He gave me a receipt, but urged me to go on and 'forget about it' as I looked like a nice fellow. He said it would be $20 if I went in."

Kushner says none of his salesmen will drive through that part of Georgia in the future. He also has reported this "speed trap" to the AAA.

Informed of the report, the State Patrol said the counties have original jurisdiction in speed law violations. No law requires sheriffs or their deputies to wear uniforms or have specially marked cars, the Patrol said.

Berliners Honor Air-Lift Dead

By KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN

New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution

BERLIN, July 10—In grateful recognition of the cost of their liberty, Berliners Tuesday unveiled a monument at Templehof airfield to 75 men who lost their lives during the air-lift.

The ceremony, in which American, British and French dignitaries, military and civilian, joined with more than 100,000 residents of the city in the vast semi-circular "Platz der Luftbruecke" (place of the airlift) in front of the terminal vividly recalled the harrowing days of the 11-month Soviet blockade.

The phrase "long live freedom." with which Lord Mayor Ernst Reuter signalled for workmen to drop the shroud from the towering shaft reflected the atmosphere of rededication to the cause in which the 75 had died.

Detachments of United States, British and French air forces stood at attention and presented arms at the moment of unveiling. Thereafter the black basalt base of the memorial was covered with wreaths laid by United States High Commissioner John J. McCloy and the other guests of honor, as well as by Mayor Reuter and the various representatives of German trade unions and similar units. The Berlin police band meanwhile played "I Had a Comrade"—traditional at German military funerals.

The names of 39 British, 31 Americans and five Germans are inscribed in the broad arc at the monument's base. Those honored were crews of the air-lift planes and workmen employed at Tempelhof who fell victim to a series of crashes that marked "operation vittles."

In addition to McCloy and Sir Ivone Kirkpatrick, British High Commissioner, guests at the unveiling included British Air Marshal Sir Aubrey Ellwood, Gen. Bouvard, commander of the first division of the French air force, Maj. Gen. William H. Turner, British Air Commodore G. W. S. Murer, the commandants of the three western sectors, and Bernard Baruch.

Gen. Tunner, as U. S. commander of the combined air-lift and task force, was in charge of the Berlin operation, he and Commodore Murer, as deputy commander, expressed their appreciation and admiration for the tremendous contribution that Berlin men and women made to the sustained effort that broke the blockade.

The airlift monument is a white steel and concrete shaft of three flying arcs rising 63-feet, tapering from 19-feet at the base to 23-feet at its tip. It faces west—from which the airlift planes entered Berlin through three air corridors, and symbolizes both the three western powers participating, and the trio of airlanes.

Police Blotter

By BILL ALLEN

A 55-year-old Negro is scheduled to appear in Recorder's Court Wednesday at 7:30 A. M. on a charge of molesting two minor white girls at a Juniper address.

Arvella Hall Austin of the rear of 811 Juniper St., N. E., is accused of luring two girls into a basement last Saturday and molesting them, according to Dets. O. L. Adams and R. B. Moore, who added that the man was jailed Monday.

Whiskey Charge

A 25-year-old Negro, John Wesley Benjamin, of 579 Lindsey St., S. W., was bound over to Fulton Criminal Court by Judge Callaway on charges of having and transporting non-tax paid corn whiskey.

Det. Lt. I. A. Thomas said Benjamin was caught fleeing from an auto that contained nearly 40 gallons of the white liquor. He was placed under $500 bond.

Beer Violation

Abe Glazer, of 354 Pulliam St., S. W., was fined $28 by Recorder Callaway for violating the wine and beer ordinance.

Det. R. A. Boone told the court he found Roy Granger, a part-time employee of Glazer's, drinking beer by the bottle in the Glazer Beer Package store.

Granger admitted he drank the beer, but claimed he brought it to the store from his home nearby. He was fined $13 for violating the anti-knife ordinance in carrying and concealing a weapon when Det. Boone entered the Glazer store.

Lottery Charge

A 50-year-old Negro Tuesday was bound over to Fulton Criminal Court under bond of $1,000 on a lottery charge by Recorder A. W. Callaway.

Detectives said they found the Negro, Will Donald, hiding lottery tickets under an outdoor toilet near his home at 331 Warren St., S. E. Donald told Judge Callaway he was "trying to catch a chicken to put up," but Dets. G. E. Wallace and C. M. Rogers produced five books of lottery-tickets they said they took from the hiding place.

Drunk Driving

A 43-year-old Atlantan who once made a swift getaway from officers who stopped him on a traffic violation Tuesday was bound over to Fulton Criminal court on $400 bond for drunk operating auto and carrying a concealed weapon.

Traffic Recorder Luke Arnold also fined Claude P. Ford of 900 Los Angeles Ave., N. E., $70 or 30 days for speeding, $16 or 26 days for running a red light and $16 or 26 days for running through two stop signs.

The offenses for which Ford was fined occurred Oct. 13, 1950. The two charges for which he was bound over to criminal court were booked July 2, by Ptl. R. L. Gunter and E. E. Michael.

'All a Mistake'

Joe Henry Dixon, 17, Negro, of 105½ Decatur St., S. E., told unsympathetic detectives it was all a mistake.

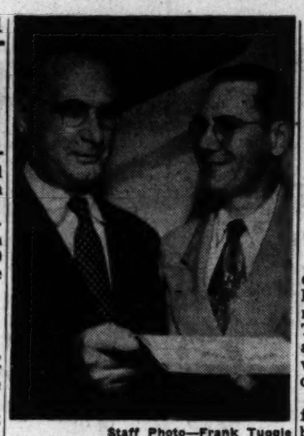

Dixon fired a pistol at another person, Dets. W. S. Acree and J. M. Pack related. The bullet struck Ed Jones, 55, Negro, of a Valentine St., N. E., address who was standing at Moore and Decatur Sts., S. E. Jones was treated at Grady Hospital for a bullet wound in the leg.

Dixon, protesting he was not firing at Jones, was jailed for suspicion of shooting another.

3 Young Men Held

Three men who police said apparently entered Atlanta by freight train were fined $18 in Recorder's Court and ordered by Judge Callaway held for further investigation.

They were John Sprouse, 25, and Harvey Sprouse, 27, of Greenwood, S. C., and Frank Lewis, 23, of Montana. Police said a railroad investigator found them hiding in the railroad yards here.

Officials Will Survey Labor Temple

By HERMAN HANCOCK

Mayor Hartsfield and members of Council's Building and Athletic Committee are scheduled next week to survey the Labor Temple on Trinity Ave., recently acquired by the city, to determine whether it is suitable for housing overflowing city departments.

The city bought the structure for $32,500 several months ago, but agreed to permit the Atlanta Federation of Trades to continue using it until the old Fulton High School, which the organization bought, became available.

License Deadline

Atlanta businessmen have until 5 p. m. Thursday to beat the deadline and renew without penalty their city business licenses for the new fiscal year, City Clerk Joe Richardson warned. After July 17 a penalty will be charged and after July 20, those who failed to renew will be subject to fi. fa. . . . A scheduled meeting of City Council's Police Committee for Wednesday has been postponed. The next regular session is set for 7:30 p. m. Aug. 1.

Honor Farris

Milton Farris, chairman of the board of trustees of the Atlanta Public Library, has been awarded one of the two trustee citations given annually by the American Library Association. The presentation was made at the 75th anniversary conference at Chicago. Charles P. Farnsley, mayor of Louisville, and trustee for the Louisville Free Public Library, received the other citation. Farris' award was "in recognition of his awareness of the social usefulness of the library . . . and of his outstanding contribution to the library couse at local and national levels."

Hepburn's Father To Marry His Nurse

WEST HARTFORD, Conn., July 10—(AP)—Dr. Thomas N. Hepburn, Hartford surgeon and father of actress Katharine Hepburn, and Miss Madeleine Santa Croce obtained a marriage license here Monday.

On the license application, Dr. Hepburn listed his age as 71 and Miss Santa Croce, who worked as a nurse in his office, said she was 50.

Mrs. Katherine Hepburn, Dr. Hepburn's first wife who was a pioneer in women's suffrage and birth control movements, died march 17.

Caruso Bust Gets New Inscription

The bust of Enrico Caruso in the City Auditorium will be re-inscribed by Westview Cemetery, Inc., to read:

"Enrico Caruso, In Memory of Jose Pennino, 1881-1942, a Loyal Friend of Opera in Atlanta." The bust of Caruso was given the City of Atlanta in memory of the late Cuban capitalist, Jose Pennino. At present, Caruso's name does not appear on the bust.

Senators Urge Law Changes To Better VA Medical Aid

By WILLIAM S. WHITE
New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, July 10—A group of Senate investigators recommended Tuesday five administrative reforms and three changes in the law to improve the direction of medical service in the Veterans Administration.

The inquiry was made by five senators headed by Hubert H. Humphrey, Democrat, Minnesota, forming a senate labor subcommittee, and grew out of the discharge of Dr. Paul B. Magnuson as chief medical director of the Veterans Administration.

The senators concluded their report by asserting that Carl R. Gray, Jr., chief of the Veterans Administration, had put in jeopardy a system which established "the best medical care available anywhere in the world," founded by Gen. Omar N. Bradley when he was administrator. The senate group thus in effect, supported Dr. Magnuson's position that led to his dismissal by Gray when he declined to resign.

Specifically, they accused Gray not of any wrong-doing but of permitting "an administrator's nightmare" in the Veterans Administration to bring him and other non-medical officials into frequent interference in medical matters.

In substance, they declared that Gray had tried to follow a complicated bureaucratic pattern while Gen. Bradley, in his day in the job, had given to his own chief medical officer, Dr. Paul R. Hawley, these three sentences of instruction, and these only:

"I want a first-class medical service and I want you to give me one. You can come to me at any time for help and advice. I shall support you fully."

The investigators proposed the following amendments to the basic law governing the Veterans Administration.

1. To "leave no doubt whatsoever" that the chief medical director was to have "primary authority to control, manage and operate the medical and hospital program."
2. To provide that the chief medical director was to be appointed directly by the President and his nomination confirmed by the Senate as a means of giving him a measure of independence from the Veterans Administrator.
3. To redefine the functions of the special medical advisory group which serves the Veterans Administration from the outside.

The five administrative recommendations were as follows:

1. That the Veterans Administration "formally delegate" to the Chief Medical Director —rather than simply have an oral understanding about—all the authority necessary to his task.
2. That no one should be appointed manager of any veterans hospital without the prior approval of the Chief Medical Director.
3. That all special services personnel and activities in veterans hospital should be directly under control of the hospital manager and that such activities should be "only in accordance with policies approved by the department of medicine and surgery."
4. That the administrator should revise the budget regulations, first, so that a hospital manager would be responsible for a single budget, and, second, to "recognize the special budgetary problems of the hospitals affiliated with the medical schools."
5. That the administrator should alter his directions as to how many people could be employed in a single hospital, to give more flexibility.

MARY HAWORTH

Divorcee Mother, 18, in Love With Her Stepmother's Beau

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am involved in a triangle situation that is very confusing, and I hope you can help me do the right thing. I am 18, the divorced mother of an infant son; and my life has been a constant up-and-down of mistakes. My mother died when I was quite small and in a short time my father married again.

My stepmother and I were intimate friends and my father's death drew us closer. After my divorce several months ago I came home to live with her. She had been going with John, who is 49, her own age, and he seemed very attached to her. Then he and I started going out together when mother was busy, and now I depend on him very much, and he is all devotion to my baby. I think he is very wonderful and we have so much in common, despite the 31 years' difference in ages.

My emotions are torn two ways. John loves me, and I know that my feeling for him is true love; but I don't want to lose the friendship and affection of my stepmother; and neither do I want to hurt her. She doesn't seem to realize that John no longer cares for her; nor has she noticed any change in me. She is making plans for the future that include him, still under the impression that he loves her, and I know she cares for him.

John thinks of mother as a wonderful person and friend, and doesn't want to hurt her either; but still, I have my own life to live, and I must also consider my son. Please give me the benefit of your opinions.—K. P.

DEAR K. P.: I suppose John is torn two ways, too—wanting the consolations of dependency upon your sturdy stepmother's benevolent character; yet also enjoying the young romantic feeling of being sweethearts with a teen-age divorce who thinks he is "wonderful!"

He needs a maternal type caretaker, and you want a Santa Claus; and thus you'll never be able to get together satisfactorily as regards your respective requirements for "peace of mind."

Before I go further, I feel I should tell you that I have no patience and no sympathy with your grab for your stepmother's beau. There can't be the slightest justification for your trying to walk off with him. You are engaged in a dishonest, contemptible maneuver, and I'm sure you know it.

Having been married and divorced, you've seen something of life; so you aren't a naive schoolgirl in this situation. You can't sincerely argue that you've lost your head in a great infatuation. You are stalking security, in terms of "belonging" to somebody, who will support you and the child; and as between leaning on your stepmother or a man for that, you'd much prefer leaning on a man, of course.

John was handy, and kindly, and ready to befriend you, because of his affection for your stepmother, and (as you say) for something to do when she was busy. All of which shows, incidentally, that his need-to-belong is satisfied only while he is a part of her way-of-life.

The wording of your letter gives the impression that you are concerned not to hurt your stepmother, despite loving John, but I doubt that. I think your confusion has to do with the fact that you aren't sure of your hold on John, once your stepmother gets the drift; and that you are uncertain of the final outcome if you try to marry him, or succeed in doing so.

In all probability the safest move is to tell your stepmother what's going through your head, and let her give you a sensible steer. Perhaps both of you should get in touch with a Family Service Agency and ask specialist help, in launching you on a thoroughgoing reconstruction program.—M. H.

Katharine Lenroot Quits Position in Child Welfare

By SIGRID ARNE

WASHINGTON, July 10—(AP). Katharine F. Lenroot is stepping down as chief of the U. S. Children's Bureau. In her place President Truman has named one of her chief aides, Dr. Martha M. Eliot.

Mr. Truman accepted Miss Lenroot's resignation Tuesday, effective Aug. 31, "with real regret."

Between the two women, and the small bureau staff, the country has seen a spectacular drop in infants' deaths in recent decades, abolition of child labor, the growth of public aid for impoverished mothers — and beyond American shores, a growing world concern for child welfare.

Wisconsin-born, golden-haired Miss Lenroot was the daughter of the late U. S. Sen. Irvine L. Lenroot. But she ignored possible paternal aid on her first job hunt. She took a civil service exam in 1915 and landed the post she wanted, a small job with the Children's Bureau.

Her first assignment was in slums where she saw children of 6 working 12 hours a day. Since then her drive has been to force public aid for neglected children, orphans, those in trouble with the law.

Miss Lenroot is now white-haired. Twelve-hour working days were common on her calendar. She was seldom seen at Washington parties. In her letter of resignation she says, "I have reached the age when I must have more leisure." She will retire to her home near Hartsdale, Westchester County, New York.

President Truman's letter accepting the resignation told Miss Lenroot: "Toughness is a quality not often attributed to women but the plain fact is that you have been a tough and persistent champion of America's children."

MISS LENROOT
36 Years' Service

Dr. Eliot will carry the same degree of "toughness" into the post. News of the appointment reached her at her Quebec summer home. She has just finished two years as assistant director of the United Nations World Health Organization.

She took her M. D. degree at Johns Hopkins in 1918. In 1923 she became an instructor of pediatrics at Yale University, where she remained until 1934. There she plunged into her first big research job on child health: A community study of rickets, and the effect of sunlight and cod liver oil on the disease. Later she repeated the study in Puerto Rico.

Take a Tip—Give Them on Vacation

By SCARLETT BLANTON

Unless you're met by "No Tipping Please" signs at every turn, you'd better have your pockets jingling when you embark on that vacation trip!

Tipping, an ancient ritual between the served and the serving, is as fundamental and as necessary as glass in your specs, so be a good scout, and go prepared.

Never has there been such a divergence in opinion about any one custom as the practice of tipping. Some say tip 10 percent of the meal or taxi fare, others grossly overpay at every turn. Most of us stoutly hold out for the 10 percent rule (to our friends) and then when the time comes furtively sneak an extra quarter into the waiting hand.

But the following information, a potpourri of advice from well-seasoned travelers, may prove of some help, and following it, you certainly can't go far wrong!

For taxi service tip from 10 to 15 percent as a general rule. On shorter hauls (50 cents or less), the tip should be no more than a dime.

At railroad, bus and air terminals, there's usually a set fee, but if not, 25 cents a bag is plenty. For 50 cents a night, pullman porters will carry the ladder, and perform other routine services. Double that tip if you have a compartment or bedroom. More still for extra services.

Hotel bellboys carry your first suitcase happily for 25 cents and any additional ones for 15 cents. A trunk comes somewhat higher, 50 cents, and expected fees for errands such as ice, newspapers, telegrams or packages run from 10 to 25.

Hotel maids expect about $3 per week for routine cleaning, $2 for weekends, and for routine headwaiter services, about $5 for two weeks is sufficient. If, on the other hand, he gives you special services at your request, an additional $3 to $5 is customary.

When visiting in the home of a friend, ask your hostess about tipping the servants. It may be that she has made special arrangements with them, and doesn't want you to tip. Maybe she'd rather you send them a little present, but in any event, she'll advise you on this particular situation.

If you're lucky enough to be cruising this Summer, the following will attend to tipping at the end of the trip (for an average $400 trip): $12 for the dining-room steward, $12 for the cabin steward, $5 for bath steward, $3 for deck steward, and 10 percent (each time) for the bar steward.

MISS ELIZABETH MERKEL

Miss Merkel's engagement to Samuel J. Patton, son of Dr. and Mrs. James G. Patton, of Decatur, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar E. Merkel of Washington, N. J. The bride-elect attended Pine Manor Junior College and the Katherine Gibbs School. Mr. Patton is a graduate of the University of Virginia.

Wax To Protect Window Sills

Window sills which take a beating from rain, soot, dust and sun, especially in Summer, can be protected against such exposure by a coating of wax.

When sills have been waxed, dirt and dust wipe off with a whisk of a dust cloth.

Paste or liquid polishing wax should be applied to the sill in a thin layer, then polished until there is a smooth protective film.

Needs Moisture

Celery is a vegetable that demands moisture and refrigeration, and whose storage life is limited. Therefore, it is better to buy celery as needed, rather than in larger quantities to be served days later.

General Tendencies.—In spite of social activities coming out all this week and next, plus an improvement in finances, today is not a very encouraging period for most of us. There are too many unexpected cross-currents at work to be able to see how matters are progressing and it would be best to let things slide along easily for the present. The evening seems lively and entertaining but the daytime can present misunderstanding and possible losses.

If It's Your Birthday.—Watch out all this coming year for the unexpected in romances, money matters and home conditions. You seem to be uncertain about events in the near future, possibly with some depression or confusion in your mind as the result. Most of this cloud will be dispelled after next April—not too long a time to wait. Try to avoid making future commitments for yourself all through the Winter months; August is the best month for you.

COAST-TO-COAST COOKING

Dixie Hotbed of Hot Bread, Despite Texans' Claims!

By AGNES REASOR OLMSTEAD

Other sections of the country think of the South as the home of hot breads. It is true that elsewhere they have hot breads, but not nearly as frequently or in such variety as south of the Mason and Dixon line.

Houston, Texas, lies a little out of the deep South but May Del Flagg, food editor of the Houston Post, writes, "Food customs and tastes are similar to those of the Southeast, due to the many recipes that have been handed down for generations. Newcomers to this section of Texas quickly take up the habit of indulging in hot breads and soon, they too, rate them tops in the food line. Favorites in Texas families, especially among the men, are hot biscuits made by the buttermilk-and-soda recipe. Corn sticks, spoon bread, and Sally Lunn are old standbys, too. Here are the recipes we use in Texas."

BUTTERMILK BISCUITS

2 cups flour, sifted
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
4 tablespoons shortening
½ teaspoon soda
1 cup buttermilk

Sift dry ingredients together, except soda. Cut in shortening. Add soda to buttermilk and beat until mixture foams. Stir into other ingredients and mix quickly. Toss on lightly floured board, roll gently, cut and bake in hot oven.

CORN STICKS

2 cups corn meal
1 cup boiling water
1 tablespoon butter
1 teaspoon salt
3 eggs, separated
1 cup milk
4 teaspoons baking powder

Scald corn meal with boiling water and cool. Add butter, salt, beaten yolks, milk and baking powder. Beat well, then add stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into corn sticks pans that have been heated and greased. Bake in hot oven.

SPOON BREAD

2 cups corn meal
1½ tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon sugar
2 teaspoons salt
2 eggs
1 teaspoon soda
1½ cups buttermilk

Scald corn meal with enough water to make it the consistency of mush. Add butter, sugar, and salt and cool. Then whip eggs lightly and add. Dissolve soda in buttermilk, beat into mixture. Pour into a greased casserole and bake for 30 to 40 minutes in a hot oven. Serve by spoonsful from dish.

SALLY LUNN

3 cups flour
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon soda dissolved in ½ cup warm water
2 teaspoons cream of tartar
1 cup sweet milk
1 tablespoon butter

Briskly stir all ingredients together. Put into two buttered pans and let rise for 15 minutes before baking. Bake in a medium oven, 350 degrees, until done. Sift powdered sugar and cinnamon over top before serving.

Irish Setter Decides To Join Gathering, Try Russian Recipes

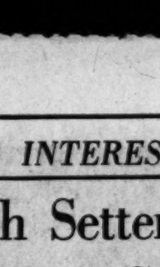

By ANNIE LOU HARDY

Atlanta boasts of no more original hostess than Mrs. Hal Davison, whose parties are noted for the interesting people they assemble, as well as for the unusual menus she serves. At a small gathering of workers for the Symphony Guild, she prepared as a surprise for her guests a delicious repast from her native Russian recipes—sandwiches with red caviar, cheeses with black caviar, tiny sweet wafers, and her special blend of Russian coffee with thick cream.

There was also a surprise in store for the hostess—an unexpected guest. Her big red Irish setter, Michael Galway Castle, strolled into the living room, not only with a guilty look, but with a mouth white with cream.

Investigation revealed that he had devoured all the caviar, the wafers, the cream and sugar, leaving only the bread and the coffee for the guests.

MR. AND MRS. McKEE NUNNALLY and their son, McKee Jr., have returned from Highlands, N. C., where they were weekend guests of their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Julian Carr, at their Summer home. Mr. and Mrs. Beauchamp Coppedge left Tuesday to spend the next two weeks with their son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Carr.

Mrs. Nunally

MEMBERS of the college set are looking forward to the arrival Thursday of pretty Gail Gardner, of Great Neck, L. I., who will visit her Bennington College roommate, Josephine Giudici, at the home of her mother, Mrs. Anne Couper, on Peachtree. Mrs. Couper and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James M. Couper, have taken a house at St. Simons for the next three weeks, and the girls will leave Sunday for the Island.

Incidentally, Josephine has added another scholarship to her laurels at Bennington where she is majoring in English literature.

LEAVING WEDNESDAY for a week's stay at St. Simons are those newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Moran, Jr., who will be guests of Miss Rebecca Cowan and her parents, the Walter Cowans.

The day she returns, July 18, Mrs. Moran, the former Gwyneth Oliver, will be central figure at a luncheon to be given by Miss Alice Mitchell at the Capital City Country Club. On July 21, she and Wesley will share honors with the newlywed Mr. and Mrs. Lamar Ball Jr., at the cocktail party planned by Dr. and Mrs. Don Cathcart. The Balls return Friday from their Bermuda honeymoon.

HOUSE PARTIES—Mr. and Mrs. Hicks Lanier, Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Blalock, the Robert Adamsons, and Mr. and Mrs. W. W. McManus have returned from Tate Mountain Estates where they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Dobbs Jr., at their Summer home. At the same time, the Goodloe Yanceys entertained a group of their friends at their home at Tate. Mr. and Mrs. Mills Lane, Jr., return Wednesday from Savannah after a week's house party at Sea Island where they shared a cottage with the Jack Glenns, the Harvey Hills, and Mr. and Mrs. Philip Alston, Jr.

THREE BACHELORS off to Cuba during the weekend were Frank Sites, Jr., Seth Mellen, Jr., and Bill Parker, Jr. Leaving Saturday, they flew to Miami and thence to Havana where they are guests all this week at the Nationale. The best of friends, the trio started to kindergarten at the same time, went through Marist and Georgia Tech together.

VACATIONISTS—For a number of years Mr. and Mrs. Harry Indell have spent the last two weeks in July at High Hampton Inn, Cashiers, N. C. Mrs. Indell leaves Saturday, accompanied by Mrs. Meade R. Sutherland, who will spend the first week with her. Mr. Indell will join her for the second week. Other Atlantans at High Hampton are Mr. and Mrs. James C. Malone, there for a month, and Mr. and Mrs. Philip Graves who leave Saturday for the resort. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sites have just returned from a three-week stay there.

LEAVING WEDNESDAY, by plane, Mrs. Clifford Tritchler will join her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Smith of New Orleans, at the Vanderbilt Hotel in New York for a week's visit.

MRS. JOE FAULKNER, of College Park, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. C. C. Shelton, of Miami, who is critically ill at Duke Hospital, Durham, N. C.

DR. AND MRS. CLYDE MENEFEE and Miss Helen Sands have returned to their home in Covington, Ky., after a visit to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Sayer.

THE WHITES, George and Leslie, are not to be confused in their respective capacities with the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra. George, who was business manager last Winter, is manager for the Summer of the Music Festival at Aspen, Col., and Leslie is pinch-hitting in his stead.

The festival at Aspen, so named for the aspen trees that cover the neighboring mountains, is under the auspices of the Aspen Institute for Humanistic Studies, which boasts of such celebrities as John Erskine, Thornton Wilder and the Rev. John J. Cavanaugh among its trustees.

AA Meets Here Today; To Study Drinking Rise

By MARTHA SMITH

Last year Atlanta police arrested 4,263 women for public drunkenness.

It's a shocking number, but no more shocking than the increase in number of women alcoholics. Statistics show that one out of every six alcoholics is a woman. When you break down the estimated number of chronic alcoholics in the nation . . . it's somewhere between three and six million . . . it comes out at least half a million women alcoholics. That's approximately the total population figure of Greater Atlanta.

When Alcoholics Anonymous meets in convention here Thursday there'll be hundreds of "arrested alcoholics" of the feminine variety along with their masculine counterparts. They're the people redeemed from shattered waste that alcohol brings about in certain people. Absent, though, will be the men and women who don't realize their alcoholic potential.

It's a rough life for an alcoholic; the people who've been there say so. The fine line between a social drinker and an alcoholic varies so widely that often a person crosses the line without realizing it. There are some road-signs along the way, however, that drinking women might consider.

It's a bad sign to need more drinks at a cocktail party than the hostess provides.

It's a worse sign if you want to lie about how much you drank yesterday.

If you need a drink in the morning, it's time to lay off the liquor.

And if you like to drink alone, break all the bottles in the house and swear off for good.

Medical men and AA agree there is no real medical cure for alcoholism. Such a cure must stem from a deep desire on the part of the alcoholic to recover. Medicine and psychiatric help can be had, but that psychological cure is the real thing.

Through history each war is followed by a wave of heavy drinking. This may account, in part, for the great increase in numbers of women alcoholics today. The social acceptance of drinking is another cause for the increase.

Still shrouded in mystery is the reason for alcoholism, beyond such general statements as "It's a physical cause," "It's a cover-up for some weakness," "It's a disease" and others. The man who finds why two people can come from an identical environment and one become an alcoholic while the other never experiences the problem of drink will truly save millions.

The road to alcoholism may be paved with laughs and clinking ice, but it's marked with danger signals, too. The road back is slow and heartbreaking and marked with little fun but many troubles. Ask any "arrested" alcoholic.

Women Mark 160,000 in B&PW Clubs

CHICAGO, July 10—(AP)—A record membership of 160,000 has been reached by the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Miss Grace Daniels, of Kingston, Pa., national membership chairman, reported Tuesday.

Mrs. Queenie Grable of Lexington, Ky., radio and television chairman of the federation, said citations for outstanding series of broadcasts went to clubs in Okmulgee, Okla., Jennings, La., Hopkinsville, Ky., and Lexington, Ky. Honorable mentions went to Wooster, Ohio, and Warren, Ohio.

Awards in the national news service contest conducted by the federation, announced by Miss Monita Goldsby, of Baton Rouge, La., were: For best use of releases sent from national executive offices, Laurel, Miss., Club; finest news picture, Abingdon, Va.; most effective news story in a daily paper, Lake Charles, La.; in weekly paper, Mangum, Okla.; outstanding editorial, Pine Bluff, Ark.

EXPERTS LIKE SPANISH THEME

Elegant, With Gypsy Appeal

NEW YORK, N. Y., July 10—Jo Copeland's free translations of Spanish themes in her Fall 1951 collection for Pattullo manages miraculously to be elegant and non-costumey and still appeal to the gypsy in every woman. From her sleek suits with typically mobile hips and arrogant shoulders to the final group of glitteringly bejewelled evening gowns, the collection habla Espanol: the bright velvet gypsy jacket, short and braid bound, the jet-encrusted toreador cape and a new and brilliant toreador pink, Sevillia brown (tanner than taupe), gorgeous Moorish coats or oriental brocade, the Flamenco suit jacket (hugging the torso from shoulder to thigh with a flared skirt below), and a complete bedazzlement of jet embroidery, pearl edging and Spanish braid intricately worked and mingled with jewels.

While the suit skirt is almost always strict ("that's the way most chic women like them"), the dress collection reflects two schools of thought. Day dresses have sinuous skirts with immense flares of taffeta or faille at the side or front. Overskirts of crisp fabric are superimposed on other slender dresses of jersey or faille. A hint of our fashion future may lie in two or three marvelously draped mat jersey day dresses with yards and yards in the skirt held close by a wide shaped lined belt.

Pauline Trigere features the princess line, the full-blown sleeve and the fitted, big sleeved coat of the French Restoration. Her deftly narrow shaped gores give the princess waistline a new superfine slenderness; other princess dresses in slipper satin or silk velvet are shaped in at the waist by artfully interlocked lozenge inserts.

Two types of the puffed-up sleeves are shown: the glass-blower's sleeve, a bubble of beautiful fabric rising from an elbow cuff or long tight sleeve, and the "En Avant" sleeve, Pauline's ultra modern variation on the big sleeve theme. It billows out to each side in horizontal folds, from gathers massed at the front of the armhole. This is used on both fleece greatcoats and silk dinner dresses — an enchanting one in pure white faille with only its superb cut for drama.

In 1951, according to Emily Wilkens, equally fashionable young ladies will flash their ruffled petticoats from beneath full-skirted daytime dresses of heather wool jerseys, vivid corduroys, or demure silk taffetas. They will be seen in walking-stick slim dresses of greige flannel, topped with a baby turtle neck and Jane Austen sleeves. For cocktails or dancing, strapless dresses banded in pseudo-chinchilla or sparkling paillettes will be made up in satins, mohair, watered silks or striped ottomans.

The lengths Monte-Sano and Pruzan go to make a coat interesting this season, range from cardigan to floor-sweeping . . . The fabrics from fluffy wool astrakhan to hand-woven metallic cloth . . . and the colors, from cloudy grey to brilliant lacquer red.

Although the side issue of whether a coat is fitted or loose comes up, it is decidedly and excitedly "crowded," first off, by a succession of looped and shaggy wonder wools and specially created silks. In addition, the most flattering of throat-cupping to face-hiding collars, a new crescent shoulder that's soft without looking rounded, and a series of spirited silhouettes vie for attention. These range from the split barrel profile of the little curved cardigan and the ample sheath to the fitted and fan-shaped greatcoat and the copious and full length loose shadow coat.

The Originala 1951 Fall collection, presented for the first time with the Couture Group of the New York Dress Institute, counterpoints "firsts" in fabric news and subtle differences in line with their familiar "bests" in any season: Such fabric treasures as vicuna, cashmere, camel's hair and Originala fleece, and such shapes as the classic reefer, guardsman's coat and country coat.

With few exceptions, the most wonderful evening dresses in the Herbert Sondheim showing are in yards and yards of silk slipper satin and sumptuous barathea satin . . . bare at the top, with either little matching jackets or extravagantly wide stoles. One floor-length dress of white satin with the fullest of skirts and smallest of narrowly strapped bodices has as accompaniment a brief bolero lined in garnet Lyons velvet to echo the coloring of a tailored velvet belt for the dress. And the small pointed collar of the jacket, embroidered in pearls on gold, is fringed with garnet beads.

Rosenstein's softly luxurious fabrics are stiffened into Spanish Infanta hiplines with short crinoline peplum underneath their bouffant folds. Spanish touches of trimming — fringes, tassels, intricate braid and the banked fires of jet embroidery — are also used to give body in the right places as well as to decorate: Massed around decolletages, on full skirts, pockets and large collars. One entire coat of garnet and black clipped fleece is edged with jet. Sometimes, on the other hand, the suppleness of the soft fabric is enhanced by flexible decoration, Franges, tassels and massed pleats.

Let's Face It, Mr. Westmore

HOLLYWOOD, July 10—"If you want to do anything about your face," they said very tactfully at Paramount, "Wally Westmore is willing."

"Face?" we said, feeling ours gingerly. "What's the matter with . . . I mean, what CAN be done about a face like this?"

"Wally," said the publicity department firmly, "is the best in the business. You just take him the raw materials and he'll give you a face that the motion picture projectionists' union would welcome on any screen."

So we took our raw materials over to Wally Westmore's little place on the second floor of a building in the middle of one of the flower gardens Paramount calls its lot. We had on our glasses because we were sleepy and we've found that it's impossible to go to sleep with glasses on. We also had on the century's accumulation of wrinkles and scars, hopes and fears and frustrations, jumbled up with freckles, dirt and mismatched features.

"That's all right," said Wally, ambling in wearing not a smock and a comb in his pocket as befits a male beautician, but a dark blue business suit and an $18 tie. "We can't all look like Hedy Lamarr—even Hedy Lamarr. Takes makeup. Go wash your face."

"Water!" we cried. "I thought beautiful women NEVER washed their faces!"

"If they don't they're dirty women," commented Mr. Westmore, looking at us critically. We washed with plenty of soap.

Then Mr. Westmore went to work. He grabbed a cake of something that looked like a South Georgia mudpie, not red clay nor yet Florida sand but somewhere in between. He coated us thoroughly with that.

"Wouldn't masking tape be simpler?" we asked. "You know, just blot out this face and draw on another one."

"Sure," said the Westmore, "but you can wiggle this face."

"Hmmn," we said, subsiding. He patted and thumped with the goo for awhile. (We later found out it was pancake makeup, the kind they use on red-headed stars.) Then he dipped a hand into a pot of red and started drawing us apple cheeks. We were beginning to admire that effect when he grabbed up a darker mud and began chuckling us under the chin with it.

"Now wait," we said peremptorily. "I don't want to usurp Ava Gardner's part as a mulatto gal in 'Show Boat'!"

"You'll come out the same color," said Mr. Westmore. "I'm just shading out your double chin and taking inches off your nose."

"Really?" we said, perking up. But we couldn't notice the difference. We looked depressingly the same. For variety we studied the pictures of Wally's other customers around the wall. Claudette Colbert, Irene Dunn, Elizabeth Taylor, Shelley Winters, Hedy Lamarr. "Look," we said wistfully after a time, "if you can't make me beautiful, just make me different, will you?"

Wally grinned at us with real sympathy. "Sure," he said. "I'll do my best."

He did, too. New eyebrows, eyelashes, eye shadow, a dusting all over with powder that made us feel just like a tobacco crop that had been gone over with arsenic, and finally lipstick. The phone rang and he refused to answer it. "Tell 'em I'm busy making up Bebe Daniels," he said.

"Well!" we said haughtily. "I'm not that old! I was a mere child when Bebe Daniels . . ."

"S'okay," he soothed us. "Old joke. When I'm busy I always say I'm making up Bebe Daniels, NELLIE! Bring your iron!"

Nellie Manley, a harassed-looking woman with bright blonde hair and the title of head hairdresser, came in bearing an old-fashioned electric curling iron. She plugged in the iron, scowled at the photographer who stood by making progress photos, and grabbed up a wad of our hair. It was hot but quick and in no time at all our droopy tresses sprung away from our temples in soft curls.

"You'll do, Claudette," she said, walking out. We thought so, too. In fact, we thought we were pretty ravishing until we got back to the hotel and asked for the key to our room. They almost made us re-register.

Then we went upstairs and took a good look in the mirror. Mr. Wally Westmore is an artist, all right. But to be 3,000 miles away from home and not even have your own familiar face along . . . we went and stuck our head under the shower.

Later we looked in the mirror again. The face we saw Wally Westmore wouldn't have had and neither would the motion picture projectionists' union. It was, in truth, a poor thing . . . but our own.

Drygoods

NEW YORK, July 10—(AP)—The cotton textile market was quiet Tuesday. The large cotton plantings revealed in the government acreage report on Monday failed to make much impression on gray goods, principally because buying interest remained nominal in character. Mills were on the sidelines, with second-hand goods accounting for small sales. The popular 80 square print cloth was available at 22 cents a yard in resale. On a nominal basis, the 38½-inch 64x60 5.35 yards print cloth was marked down to 18 cents a yard and the 45-inch 64x60 4.65 yards print was lowered to 21½ cents a yard.

The wool goods market was quiet. Dealers saw no immediate prospects for improvement in demand.

C&S Bank Becomes Biggest in South

By BILL BORING

The Citizens and Southern National Bank Tuesday became the South's biggest financial institution.

At a meeting in Savannah, its stockholders authorized an increase in the bank's capital structure to $20,000,000.

Mills B. Lane, Jr.

This will top by about $2,000,000 the capital outlay of the South's second biggest bank, Whitney National in New Orleans.

The Citizens and Southern's capital increase will be accomplished by the issuance of an additional 100,000 shares of stock.

The new stock issue will be offered to shareholders of record July 10, 1951, on the basis of one share of the new issue for each six shares they now hold. The price will be $20 per share.

The $2,000,000 received from the sale will be divided equally between the bank's capital and surplus funds, bringing the capital to $7,000,000 and the surplus to $10,000,000.

When added to the bank's undivided profits and its reserves, the $17,000,000 total will give the bank a capital structure of $20,000,000.

Mills B. Lane, Jr., Citizens and Southern president, said warrants whereby stockholders may subscribe to the new stock issue will be mailed next week. He said the stockholders will be given until 3 p. m. (EST) Aug. 16 to subscribe.

Following the meeting of Citizens and Southern National Bank stockholders, trustees of the Citizens and Southern Holding Co. authorized a stock dividend of 300,000 shares, boosting the company's total shares to 700,000, equal to the number of Citizens and Southern National Bank shares under Tuesday's authorization.

Trustees of the holding company authorized a reduction of the par value of its stock from $10 to $1 a share, thus creating 400,000 shares of $1 stock.

The total stock of the holding company, which operates the Citizens and Southern Banks in Albany, Dublin, LaGrange, Thomaston, East Point, Atlanta, and South Carolina cities, is held in trusteeship for the stockholders of the Citizens and Southern National Bank.

CEASE-FIRE TALK is giving the jitters to two Georgia industries—textiles and turpentine.

It's the length of the talks and negotiations that's hurting. Customers of the industries are holding back on orders in the face of the uncertainty.

Turpentine and other naval stores business has just about slowed to a halt; particularly the foreign trade.

For the textile industry, the prolonged cease-fire negotiations are only another in a series of uncertainties that have kept business spotty all the year.

If peace comes to Korea, some textile manufacturers and buyers believe that despite the fact the Government still will be buying big amounts of textiles in the year ahead, the procurement program definitely will be curtailed. This is a situation contributing to a sluggish market.

Another big factor in the industry's spotty business is the new General Overriding Regulation 13 which the OPS issued shortly after Congress passed its 31-day extension of price controls.

This regulation further confused the sluggish textile market by placing some manufacturers under recently-filed ceiling prices while others remained under the General Ceiling Price Regulation of last January.

Then there's the decline in the cotton market, which has caused price-conscious buyers to delay placing textile orders as long as possible so as to gain by a cheaper new-crop cotton position.

All in all, the textile pictures momentarily is very spotty. Some mills are going full blast; others are thinking of extending the Summer vacation period of curtailing the work week once vacations are over.

THE AUTO INDUSTRY is shaping plans for an accelerated sales drive if peace comes in Korea.

The planning is based on the theory that an end to Korean hostilities could tighten up an already tight retail demand.

That may be one of the effects of favorable developments in Korea, although the automobile sales executives are continuing to predict a new car shortage before the year's end.

PHILIP MORRIS EARNINGS were down but sales were up in the first quarter of the company's fiscal year, which began March 31.

Sales were $77,869,000 compared with $75,859,000 for the same period last year. Earnings were estimated at $1.32 a share on 2,448,212 common shares outstanding against $1.46 a share at this time last year.

This was reported at annual stockholders meeting Tuesday in Richmond, Va.

FEWER BUSINESSES FAILED in the week ended July 5 compared with the same week last year.

Dun & Bradstreet said this year's total failures for the holiday-shortened week was 129. For the week a year ago the number was 188.

THE GAS BAN may not affect Georgia after all.

Rock G. Taber, president of the Atlanta Gas Light Co., said Tuesday he has hopes the Government's proposal to prohibit future installation of natural gas equipment in homes will not apply in this state.

Taber said his company is seeking an increase of natural gas from 223,000,000 to 302,000,000 cubic feet a day. If the Federal Power Commission approves the hike, this area will have a sufficient gas supply and thus should not be restricted by the proposed Washington order, Taber said.

DECATUR BUS SERVICE is under study by the Georgia Public Service Commission.

The Commission Tuesday took under advisement a plea by the Atlanta Company to discontinue feeder service between Decatur and East Lake and also a request to curtail service from the Rock Springs Road Apartments to Decatur, via Emory University.

THE RETAIL CREDIT COMPANY has opened a new supply branch here.

First building on the northern section of Atlanta's Expressway (1065 Williams St., N. W.), the structure is of ultramodern design, containing approximately 40,000 square feet of floor space.

The new branch will manufacture all supplies and printed forms used by Retail Credit Company offices in the U. S., Cuba and Mexico.

Formal opening exercises are set for Wednesday. The unit, however, already is in operation.

CIVILIAN GOODS are not presently in short supply and neither are they likely to be before Jan. 1.

Top Government officials in Washington said this Tuesday, but warned of a pinch next year when defense production goes into high gear.

The Commerce Department said American industry is turning out goods faster than it can sell them. The Defense Production Administration said the civilian economy already has been cut back as hard as it will be—at least until defense output hits its stride in 1952.

NORGE DEALERS in Georgia attended a "home show" here Tuesday, with the Hopkins Euipment Company as host.

The dealers saw new model appliances and other Norge equipment for which Hopkins Equipment Company is distributor.

NATIONAL GYPSUM CO. is forming a new Southeastern Sales Division, divided into Atlanta and Charlotte districts.

William H. Pulley, who has been manager of the Atlanta district office for 17 years, will be divisional manager. He also will retain his duties as district manager.

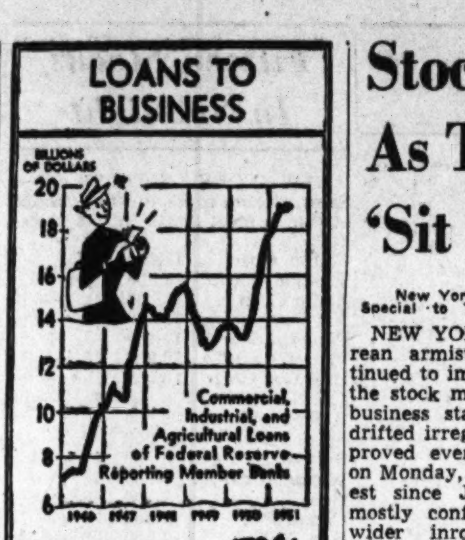

Commented Pulley on the company's new expansion: "This is an indication of the importance of the Southeastern market in National Gypsum planning. We expect to make other moves here, including improvements at our Savannah plant.

A FREIGHT RATE HIKE was opposed Tuesday by a long string of government witnesses.

They told the Interstate Commerce Commission in Washington that the railroad's requested 15 percent increase would have far-reaching effects on the nation's economy.

The Commerce Department said the roads had failed to prove their need for a nationwide increase; the OPS said such an increase would add more than $1,000,000,000 a year to freight bills and "would generate very significant inflationary pressures."

LOANS TO BUSINESS

Stocks Ebb As Traders 'Sit Tight'

New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

NEW YORK, July 10—The Korean armistice negotiations continued to impose a heavy hand on the stock market Tuesday from a business standpoint, while prices drifted irregularly lower. Trading proved even more cautious than on Monday, dropping to the smallest since June 1. Losses were mostly confined to fractions but wider inroads were sustained through profit taking among some recent favorite issues.

Measured by the Dow-Jones composite rate, the list showed a fall of .29 point, net. Volume on the stock exchange contracted to 990,000 shares against 1,110,000 shares on Monday. Of the 1,061 individual issues traded, 514 showed losses with gains confined to 286.

There was no definite news to account for the sell-off, only a furtherance of the cautious attitude dictated by the talks aimed to end the fighting in Korea. Traders were obviously holding "tight" in order to proceed in either direction, depending on the results of the truce parleys.

Kaiser Aluminum was one of the strong issues of the session as a reslut of the announcement of a 10 percent stock dividend in addition to a cash disbursement of 32½ cents a share. The stock moved ahead 1⅝ points to a close of 30¼. Lukens Steel showed an advantage of ¾ point at 37½. Other issues to move against the trend included American Cyanimide, Allied Mills, Sylvania Electric, Dow Chemical, People's Gas, Pittsburgh Glass, Thompson Products and Western Union, all higher by a point and more.

The medium and low price stocks led in activity with Columbia Gas on 13,400 shares at 13¾ and Tri-Continental on 13,000 shares at 11⅛, both unchanged from the previous close. Radio Corporation slipped ¼ point to a rate of 21 on 13,100 shares.

Standard Oil of New Jersey declined ¾ point to a rating of 61⅝. United States Steel fell ¼ point at 39½ and General Motors gave way a similar amount to 48⅞. Some of the recent favorites among the coppers, textiles, rails and rubbers were subjected to realizing.

On the Curb, Brown Forman Distilling gained a point, and Molybdenium Corp. was up ½ point at times, only to close at 35, unchanged.

Crop Outlook Called Best In History

Crops prospects for 1951, under a broad defense production program in this country, are the most favorable the United States has ever known, the Department of Agriculture, in Washington, reported Tuesday.

In listing the prospective yields of various crops by states, the Department gave the following figures for Georgia:

Corn, 3,465,000 acres in cultivation, with an estimated yield of 19 bushels per acre and a total estimated yield of 65,835,000 bushels.

Tobacco, 111,100 acres, with a prospective yield of 1,250 pounds per acre and a total estimated yield of 138,864,000 pounds.

Sweet potatoes, 46,000 acres in cultivation, with an estimated yield of 85 bushels per acre and a total estimated yield of 3,910,000 bushels.

Peaches, 4,914,000 bushels.

An estimate o nthe cotton yield has not been released.

Permit Asked For Bond Issue

The Atlanta Gas Light Co. Tuesday filed an application with the Public Service Commission for permission to issue $4,000,000 in twenty-year four percent debenture bonds.

Proceeds of the issue will be used largly to pay short-term bank loans incurred in the recent expansion of the company and also to help pay for future expansions.

Present capital structure of the Atlanta Gas Light Company consists of $13,390,000 in three percent first mortgage bonds, $2,000,000 in 4½ percent preferred stock and 802,553 shares of common stock of $10 par value.

Major Grains Close Higher

CHICAGO, July 10—(AP)—Good demand for grains found offerings light at the Board of Trade Tuesday, and prices pushed upward. For the most part the trade was influenced by prospects of a week of damp, cool weather.

Soybeans, especially the July contract, moved ahead rapidly. Floor reports said that Italy had taken 5,000 tons of soybean oil and that Germany has made inquiries.

Prospects of damage from excessive rains influenced the trading in corn and oats. More unwanted moisture was in prospect for the winter wheat country, and unseasonably cool weather was reported from the Canadian wheat provinces.

Observers said that mills were good buyers of cash wheat, indicating some new flour business. There were no reports of exports of wheat or corn.

A weaker hog market was a factor in lard trade.

At the finish wheat was ½ to 2¾ higher than Monday's close, July $2.33¼-¼. Corn was ⅞ to 2¾ higher, July $1.74. Oats were ⅞ to 1½ higher, July 76¾. Rye (old style) was ¾ higher to 4 cents lower, July $1.95. Soybeans were unchanged to 4½ cents higher, July $3.07¾-08. And lard was unchanged to 15 cents a hundred pounds lower, July $16.50.

4th Quarter Applications Deadline For Metal Allotments Is July 31

Here's important news for Georgia manufacturers using steel, copper and aluminum:

The National Production Authority says you must file applications for fourth-quarter allotments by July 31.

Merrill C. Lofton, regional director of the U. S. Department of Commerce, parent of NPA, said forms with instruction sheets on which consumers of the metals may state their requirements are being mailed, but some manufacturers may not receive them because they did not file applications under the third-quarter allotment.

Those not receiving the forms should apply to the nearest field office of the Department of Commerce. In Atlanta, it's at 418 Atlanta National Bank Building, 50 Whitehall St., S. W.

Lofton said all manufacturers of products listed in the so-called "Official CMP Class B Product List," as revised July 1, must file applications. This list is available in Commerce Department field offices at Savannah and Augusta as well as in Atlanta.

Consumer durable goods manufacturers who were not previously required to file must now do so, Lofton said.

Manufacturers whose requirements for any quarter from October, 1951, to September, 1952, exceed minimum quantities must file in Washington.

In the applications, the manufacturers must state all requirements for steel, copper and aluminum they expect to use in the fourth quarter of 1951.

Trade Survey Set for City By Railroad

More than 300 business and civic leaders in communities along the route of the Central of Georgia Railway between Atlanta and Savannah will come to Atlanta on July 17 to investigate industrial development of the Atlanta area.

This trip is a feature of the celebration planned by that railway in honor of the fourth birthday anniversary of its streamliner, the Nancy Hanks, II.

The itinerary of the party in Atlanta will include a luncheon and an inspection of the Ford Assembly Plant, at Hapeville; a tour of the Atlanta General Depot, at Conley, and an inspection of the Central of Georgia's Empire Industrial District at East Point.

The party will include public officials and businessmen from Savannah, Augusta, Macon, Dover, Statesboro, Sylvania, Millen, Metter, Waynesboro, Wadley, Tennille, Sandersville, Dublin, Wrightsville, Gordon, Barnesville, Thomaston and Griffin.

Cotton Futures Close Lower

NEW YORK, July 10—(AP)—Cotton futures were depressed Tuesday by liquidation, influenced by large crop ideas. Prospects of a bumper production became more definite when the Department of Agriculture on Monday estimated cotton plantings this year at 29,510,000 acres, or almost 1,000,000 acres more than the government goal. Losses in future extended to almost $1.50 a bale before the market met some support by professional traders and light trade buying.

Old crop July futures weakened in sympathy with the easing in spot cotton markets which had declined more than 1½ cents a pound on average during the past 10 days. At the same, certificate cotton stocks have started to move up which raised the possibility that some cotton may be tendered against July futures.

The weather in the cotton was clear and hot which was very favorable for the crop.

Liquidation depressed presses into new low ground for the day near the close. Old crop July led the reaction, with a break of much as $4.75 a bale compared with the previous close.

Futures closed 45 cents to $4.75 a bale lower than the previous close.

Sugar Futures

NEW YORK, July 10—(AP)—World sugar futures were irregular today. Traders were uncertain as to the trend in raw values. Domestic sugar futures declined because of a slow demand for refined sugar and sentiment that the market may not readily asorb the full 1951 sugar marketing quota established by the Dept. or Agriculture.

World raws were quoted nominally around 7.00 cents a pound FOB Cuba.

Domestic raws were held around 6.65 cents a pound delivered, with refiners holding back.

Demand for refined sugar was of a day-to-day character.

ATLANTA GAS LIGHT COMPANY

July 16, 1951, has been fixed as the date as of which stockholders of record of Atlanta Gas Light Company will be entitled to notice of and to vote at a special stockholders' meeting to be held in the office of the Corporation, in Atlanta, Georgia, on August 14, 1951, to authorize the issuance of debentures and to amend the charter of the Corporation. This notice supersedes notice published July 7, 1951.

JAS. H. MOTZ, Secretary.

July 11, 1951.

SUBJECT: NOTICE OF ADVERTISING FOR BIDS FOR SERVICE SUBCONTRACT COVERING FIRING AND CLEANING BOILERS, FURNCES AND HOT WATER HEATERS, OCTOBER 1, 1951, TO SEPT. 30, 1952.

TO: PROSPECTIVE BIDDERS AND OTHERS CONCERNED.

1. On July 12, 1951, Roane-Anderson Company, as Agent for and on behalf of the United States of America under Contract No. W-7401 eng-115, will issue invitations for bids for Firing and Cleaning Boilers, Furnaces and Hot Water Heaters for a period of one year, beginning October 1, 1951, to September 30, 1952.
2. The work consists of the following:
Alternate "A"—The Subcontractor shall furnish all labor, tools, equipment, materials, supplies and service and perform all work necessary to satisfactorily fire and clean all boilers, furnaces and hot water heaters; clean all furnace and boiler rooms, and replace, at his own expense, all plug fuses, fustats and electric light bulbs in boiler and furnace rooms in accordance with the terms of the Subcontract Procedures.
Alternate "B"—The Subcontractor shall furnish all labor, tools, equipment, materials, supplies and services and perform all work necessary to satisfactorily fire and clean all boilers, furnaces and hot water heaters; clean all furnace and boiler rooms and replace, at his own expense, mechanisms, and automatic and manual controls in operating condition equivalent to that existing at the beginning of the Subcontract operations; clean all furnace and boiler rooms and replace, at his own expense, all plug fuses, fustats and electric light bulbs in boiler and furnace rooms in accordance with the terms of the Subcontract Procedures.
Bidders are invited to bid on both Alternate "A" and Alternate "B." Award, however, will be made of one or the other, and not both.
3. All bids will be considered not only on the basis of the lowest bid but on the applicable experience, financial assets, integrity of the bidder and his ability to obtain equipment and employees. The Roane-Anderson Company, as Agent aforesaid, reserves the right to reject any and all bids and to waive any informality in bids received, and to accept or reject any item of any bid, unless such bid is qualified by specific limitation. However, all accepted items will be awarded as a whole to one bidder.
4. A priority rating will be applied to necessary materials at the time the contract is executed.
5. Request for additional information, inspection of sites or request for bid forms should be made to Roane-Anderson Company, P. O. Box 456, Oak Ridge, Tennessee, or telephoning J. B. Davis, Assistant Purchasing Agent, through Knoxville 4-3387, extension 24, or Oak Ridge 5-4361, extension 24.

Blind Plant May Be Moved

Gov. Talmadge indicated Tuesday that the state may move the Georgia Factory for the Blind from Bainbridge to make way for reactivation of the Air Force Flight School.

The Chief Executive disclosed that the Air Force had told a delegation from Bainbridge it is laying plans to reopen the World War II training center.

Talmadge said the factory, which trains the state's blind to do useful labor, was located at Bainbridge two years ago after Decatur County gave the state a rent-free 20-year lease.

Wage Boost Ends Strike

Some 600 members of the AFL Union of Operating Engineers returned to work here Tuesday after voting to accept a compromise wage offer from Associated General Contractors.

Union members had been on strike for a week for a 25 cents an hour wage increase retroactive to June 28 pending Wage Stabilization Board approval.

Compromise calls for an immediate 10 percent increase authorized by the WSB and further boosts—amount of which was not made known—that might be approved by the wage board. Any additional increases would be retroactive to Sept. 1.

OBITUARY

Mrs. P. L. Johnston

Mrs. P. L. Johnston, of 1037 St. Charles Ave., N. E., died Tuesday night at a local hospital.

Funeral plans will be announced by A. S. Turner & Sons.

Mrs. Johnston, wife of P. L. Johnston, an advertising agent, was well known in literary contest circles. She had been a columnist for a national contest magazine for the past 15 years and for one year a member of the All American Contest Team.

Born in Leominster, Eng., Mrs. Johnston, the former Hilda Baker, was the daughter of the Rev. S. J. Baker who came to the U. S. in 1903 and settled in Macon in 1912. Mrs. Johnston met her husband in Macon while he was educational director for the First Baptist Church there.

Mrs. Johnston was a member of the T. E. L. class at the Druid Hills Baptist Church.

4 Georgians Are Killed In Korea

Four Georgians were killed and 11 were wounded in action in Korea, the Defense Department announced Tuesday and an Atlantan was informed her jet-pilot husband was missing in action.

First Lt. Will Clyde White, U. S. Air Force, husband of Mrs. Kathleen Rogers White, 603 Seminole Ave., N. E., has been reported missing from a mission on June 29.

Lt. White

In a letter to Mrs. White, the Air Force revealed that Lt. White, while on a support mission over enemy installations passed over a ridge, clipping the right wing of his F-80 jet fighter-bomber and causing the wing to burst into flames. Fire spread to the fuselage as the aircraft entered a shallow dive and exploded against a hill.

The Defense Department identified Korean fatalities as Pfc. David Cameron Jr., Dalton; Pvt. Willie F. Cofield, Larange; M/Sgt. Willie M. Davis, Blackshear; and Sgt. Willie Royal, Rt. 2, Wray.

Georgia wounded included Pfc. Grady L. Cannon, McIntyre; Pfc. William Harris Jr., Savannah; Pfc. John H. Herring, Columbus; Warrant Officer (jg) John A. Johnson Jr., Savannah; Pfc. Clarence E. Kitchens, Rt. 1, Summerville; Pfc. James B. Layfield, Cairo; and the following members of the Marine Corps: Cpl. Phillip C. Corbin, Pooler; Pfc. Alfred J. Haynes, Savannah; Pfc. Charles W. Hunt, Port Wentworth; and Cpl. Arthur C. McCoy Jr., Lebanon.

Lt. White, a native of Selma, Ala., was with the Savannah Air National Guard unit activated last October. The unit was trained at George Air Base in California where it joined Atlanta and California Guard groups. Lt. White was sent to Itazuke, Japan, and later transferred to the 36th Fighter Bomber Squadron of Fifth Air Force at Kimpo Air Base in Korea. At the time of his accident, he had completed 69 missions over enemy territory.

Before entering the service, Lt. White was connected with the Civil Aeronautics Administration in Savannah.

Money to Loan 72

MONEY
While You Wait
AUTO LOANS
The fastest and easiest way to get a loan is to borrow the money on your car. There is only one thing to do—park your car either in our lot or near our office, come in and show us proof of ownership. The entire transaction takes only a few minutes and you can drive away with the cash in your pocket. There is absolutely nothing else to it.
FURNITURE LOANS
Bring your own list—you get the money immediately.
SIGNATURE LOANS
You can get up to $1,000 on your signature. Immediate cash.
OTHER LOANS
No matter what type of loan you want, we make it a point to give you the money without delay.
We will be glad to reduce present payments on any loan or obligation you now have, and give you additional cash besides.

Holidata

Preceding this Fourth of July, I was reading Fleet Adm. William D. Leahy's "I Was There," published by Whittlesey House. Pages 298 and 299 shed some light on China that did not emerge from the Senate Committee's investigations of MacArthur's recall, despite the millions of words of testimony.

Leahy charges that during January, 1945, the British, Dutch and French actively fought American attempts to unify China. Imperial propaganda services and imperial intelligence services all were hostile to the U. S., as indicated by the private reports of Ambassador Pat Hurley.

Not only that, but U. S. career diplomats jealous of Hurley, because he'd been given the China post over their heads, were playing a double-cross game, behind his back.

Of the three British groups in China, one was headed by a Col. Ride. "A report of Col. Ride came into our possession," recalls Admiral Leahy, "which said that America's attempts to unify Chinese forces against the Japanese were considered as 'interference in the local Chinese government.' The British Ambassador to China told Hurley that the American policy to unify China was detrimental, if not destructive, to the position of the white man in Asia. Hurley summarized the purpose of the British-Dutch-French propaganda at the time, as follows:

"1—To condemn America's effort to unite Chinese military forces as interference in the Chinese government.

"2—To keep China divided against itself.

"3—To use Chinese and American forces and American lend-lease equipment for reconquest of their colonial empires.

"4—To justify imperialism as opposed to democracy."

Hurley, according to the Hurley chronicle, blamed British-Dutch-French underhand tactics for blocking the unification of China, even after he'd brought together Chiang Kai-shek and Chinese Commies, and won the support of Dr. T. V. Soong.

Of graver importance, Hurley blamed the breakdown of negotiations to officers serving under American Gen. Wedemeyer!

"Hurley thought he had overcome all elements," writes Leahy, "when the Communists refused to continue the discussions. Hurley blamed the cessation of negotiations on an attempt by some officers of Gen. Wedemeyer's command to bypass Chiang's National Government and deal directly with Washington. Hurley reported that during an absence of Gen. Wedemeyer from headquarters, these officers formulated a plan to put American paratroopers in the Communist-held areas. These paratroopers were to be used in leading Communist bands in guerrilla warfare. American supplies were to be furnished directly to the Communists, and the dissident troops would be replaced under command of an American officer."

Dr. BRADY

Football for Men

Even though only two or three school children gave their lives for the coach in 1950—what's the life of a boy or two compared with the glorification of the coach?—I tell you timid, wishy-washy parents again and again, football is a grown man's game and not a game for growing boys.

Most boys are growing, developing until they are eighteen years of age—and many of them continue to grow in strength if not in size until they are 22 or 23 years of age.

Even the overgrown boy in the early teens who is dragooned into "training" for football is in peril of sustaining irreversible damage to his heart. Boys who are growing fast have little more reserve power than the heart requires to meet the normal demands of active play. It is very bad medicine to subject the heart, at this time of life, to the strain of violent effort. A reasonable amount of dilatation (overfilling) of the heart is good for a growing boy; a little too much of a load may stretch the heart wall beyond recovery of its normal condition. Such loss of heart tone handicaps the victim for years, maybe for the rest of his life.

The teen-age boy who succumbs to the propaganda which brands him as yellow, sissy or unloyal if he does not report for practice when the coach calls for candidates has to compete with players who are heavier and stronger than himself by reason of being a few years older than he is. This spurs the boy to still greater effort and so much great risk of damage to his heart.

Don't take my word for any of these statements. Ask any reputable physician about it. If you can find a physician of standing who cares to contradict anything I say about high school football I'll be happy to print his statement (if it is reasonably short) and identify him or keep his identity secret, as he or she may prefer.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed and addressed to The Constitution.

TELEVISION-RADIO

RCA Color Wins Nod From Press

By PAUL JONES

The color television controversy was tinted with a ray of hope for the 10,000,000 or more owners of conventional video sets Tuesday after RCA unveiled its "compatible" color system in New York.

Reporters on the scene for the premiere of the RCA system said "there is little to choose between the quality of the two systems (CBS color already approved by the FCC and the new RCA system)." One observer, however, said RCA's system works equally well on both black and white and color.

The RCA showings, which opened Monday and which will continue through Friday, featured outdoor pickups of a bevy of luscious bathing beauties. Purpose of these outdoor shots was to lay groundwork for another appeal before the FCC. But, RCA officials would not commit themselves on when such a move would be made.

Instead, RCA has taken its case to the people. Viewers were asked to write in giving their reaction to the black and white and color pictures which are being telecast simultaneously.

Kiddie drama shows are coming in for considerable attention lately. We've reviewed two such shows on WSB-TV recently and can recommend both. The Magic Slate, which will be telecast at 7 Wednesday night, is the foremost of the two. It features fables, fairy stories and child novels. "Ali Baba and the 40 Thieves" will be presented this Wednesday. It's the story of a poor woodchopper who stumbled on a fortune in jewels.

The other is Tom Corbett, Space Cadet, which has moved to a new time—6:30 p. m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday on WSB-TV. This is a program of high-adventure in the upper-stratosphere which stars Frankie Thomas who plays a rookie at the Space Academy.

Television Theater features a drama for the adults at 9-WSB-TV. A play entitled "Merry Madness," starring Cameron Prudhomme and Regina Wallace will be presented. The story's about a persuasive old man whose daughter falls in love with the son of a business rival.

The Web and Suspense, two 30-minute thrillers, will feature other plays with an adult slant. "The Man In the Goldfish Bowl" will be presented on The Web at 8:30-WAGA-TV and "The Greatest Crime," starring Walter Slezak, will be presented on Suspense at 10:30-WAGA-TV.

Danny Thomas and his company, including Kay Starr and 8-year-old Bunny Lewbel, will return to the Four Star Revue at 8-WSB-TV for the final show of this season. Vacation time will be the theme.

The Graziano - Burton fight will be telecast at 9-WAGA-TV.

On the Air—George Raft stars in another Rocky Jordan episode at 8-WAGA-radio when he joins police in a search for a bag containing test tubes filled with a deadly germ culture. . . . Jack Webb takes the spotlight when WSB-NBC brings listeners the second in a series of Pete Kelly's Blues at 8. Show is set in the turbulent 20's featuring nostalgic music, drama. . . . Mr. D. A. solves "The Case of the Last Break" at 9:30-WSB-NBC. . . . A crime reporter breaks a story about a triple murder on the Big Story at 10-WSB-NBC. . . . "Yours Truly, Johnny Dollar" features the story of "The Fair-Way Matter," in which 13 people die in an airplane crash at 9:30-WAGA-CBS.

Can a mother's love cure eczema?

Answer: Yes, says Dr. Donald H. Williams, Vancouver, B. C., dermatologist. A mother's caresses and expressions of affection are a better cure than any drug in many cases of "allergic eczema" in little children—in fact the child may be literally "itching for love." For a baby's skin not only is more sensitive than the average adult's; it is a more direct source and vehicle of emotion. The anxiety of a child who feels he is neglected or rejected by his mother may express itself directly in skin irritation, which only the calming of his fears will relieve. Some adults react in much the same way.

Is race hatred taught by parents?

Answer: Sometimes, of course, but it is even more likely to be induced unintentionally by parental harshness. According to Dr. P. M. Turquet, writing in the British Journal of Medical Psychology, a child who is harshly treated or frustrated and forbidden to express his anger at the people who treat him in that way is likely to take it out on "foreigners" or "strangers" when he grows up. To punish a child who says, "I hate you," when you discipline him may make him a bully or warmonger later, even though he is neither by nature. Dictatorial fathers probably caused Nazi anti-Semitism.

Do shock treatments alter personality?

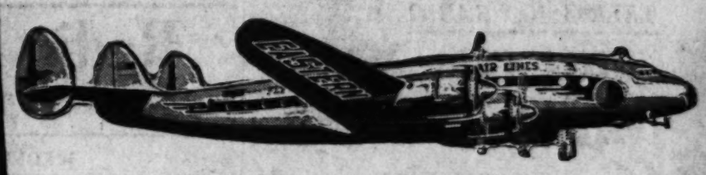

Answer: Not essentially, report psychologists Sadi Oppenheim and David Brower in the Psychiatric Quarterly Supplement. Comparison of the findings of the Rorschach ("ink-bolt") tests of 35 patients before and after such treatment led to the conclusion that "electric shock therapy in and by itself does not penetrate the deeper strata of the personality of depressed patients," though it makes them more responsive and helps them to think more clearly.

Pleasant Moments in sports BY Bert Gumbiner

BIGGEST GAME FISH EVER CAUGHT

ZANE GREY, the famous Western-story writer, was also an ardent big-game fisherman.

FOR THREE YEARS he had spent each fishing season at Tahiti trying to land a Giant Tahitian Marlin, but with no luck. Then one rainy morning in the Spring of 1930, it happened.

HALF-A-TON of fighting fish hit his line and proceeded to drag his heavy motor launch all over that part of the Pacific. When the monster was finally brought to gaff, it took 12 men to drag him onto the beach. Fourteen feet, two inches long, 1,250 pounds in weight, he was the biggest game fish ever landed on a rod and reel, a true champion of the deep.
